HOOVER SHOWS STRENGTH IN PRE-CONVENTION ACTIVITIES

Rogers Suggests Coolidge Dispatch Marines to K. C.

(Special To The News)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 5.—I see by this morning's papers that Mr. Coolidge is sending somebody to Kansas City to protect his interest. If I had any interests to be protected in any political convention I believe I would send the marines.

Be a good joke on the Republicans if they go and nominate somebody else, if Coolidge would veto the nomination. He is liable to do it just through force of habit.

With everybody's mind on stock selling and buying I just want to give you a tip. The way things are looking don't sell the Democratic party short.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Tonight is the high spot in the graduation program of New Castle high school students aside from the actual presentation of diplomas tomorrow night. The annual class night program will be presented in the Scottish Rite auditorium. Last year practically every seat in the great auditorium was filled and indications are that this situation will be duplicated tonight.

Commencement week is also under way at Westminster—Lawrence county college, and many old timers are gathered for the week. High spot of today is throwing open of Robert Rudley Brown dormitory for boys, the building largely financed by New Castle alumni and friends of the school. It will be placed in service in the fall.

On Thursday, the Lawrence County Sabbath School convention will be held at the Scottish Rite cathedral. Officials of the county organization are endeavoring to make it the greatest turnout of Sabbath School workers of the county, that has ever been seen here. They expect to duplicate some of the scenes for attendance at the cathedral that were a part of the great state convention held here last fall.

Another sign of the times—flying helmets are offered for sale at various places about the city. Helmets seem to be a part of the equipment needed for many persons who take to flying.

Again Pa Newc might ask those who are literal minded what is so rare as a day in June.

And it is bad weather for aviation in and about New Castle. The New Castle Airport is soggy; the giant Ryan cannot take off; and so the droning overhead has ceased temporarily.

While the Lawrence County Council, Boy Scouts of America is not exactly in financial straits, yet they need money. To get this money, DeLace Cole and his cohorts have concocted a vaudeville show to take place late in June at the Scottish Rite cathedral. With DeLace Cole at the helm, people should know just what sort of a show it will be. Mr. Cole is noted for his ability as an entertainer. So, if one wants to see dragons at play, and at the same time, help this most worthy boy movement, he has but to attend the show. Tickets will be placed on sale in the near future.

Highland avenue was in the grips of a flood this morning. People standing waiting for street cars had reason to sing Muddy Waters, or what have you. Far up the street, a sandpile that had blocked the water for some time, suddenly decided to move. And down the avenue it came.

As many reporters have said before Pa Newc even came on the scene, there were giants in the old days, mighty men there were of old: men of great renown. And it was a boozy old compositor who brought this home to us yesterday. In a restaurant he was, eating veal chop suey and playing the mechanical piano. He felt confidential, and for all his confessed 72 years, his viewpoint was stimulating. Years ago, he worked the eastern loop of the old Associated Press. Years ago, he had traveled all over the world, setting type. Yes, he said, he even worked on The PIONEER.

Contests Show Hoover Strong In Convention

New Hoover Strength Evidenced By Delegate Contests From Southern States

HOOVER BACKERS ARE CONFIDENT

National Committee Continues Hearings On Contests; Hoover Opposition Active

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

KANSAS CITY, June 5.—Herbert Hoover's candidatorial stock was clearly in the ascendancy today—at least, so far as Kansas City is concerned.

ADD CONTENTS A

Admittedly possessed of more delegates than any other candidate, and victorious in their first real skirmish with "the enemy", the Hoover forces were militantly confident and alert today. Their watchword is "no relaxation."

The first of the seventy-odd delegate contests offered fairly conclusive proof that the Hoover managers are in command of the party machinery. The Hoover delegates in two states, Florida and Kentucky, have been seated over delegates listed in the field against the cabinet candidate.

Old-Timer Shunted.

The numerical value of the delegates themselves is perhaps less significant than the fact that in one instance an organization regular of nearly twenty years standing, George W. Bean of Florida, was unhorsed and placed outside the convention. It is a rare event in G. O. P. circles for an organization old-timer of Bean's type to be shunted aside. Yet it was done so decisively as to leave no doubt as to the strength of the Hoover organization in the governing body of the party.

Today the national committee continued its hearings of the contests. And there was every reason to believe that the Hoover forces would continue successful. The opposition mustered about everything it had in the Florida test—and lost.

It is doubtful if any presidential

On Secret Ocean Hop

Central Press telephoto of Miss Amelia M. Earhart, social worker in the Boston slums, who, with Wilmer S. Stultz as pilot, and Lou Gordon, Harvard graduate, as mechanic, came down at Halifax, Nova Scotia, on the first leg of an attempt at a round-trip flight to England. Inset is of Stultz. They set out from the Boston airport secretly, in their tri-motored Fokker plane, Friendship, built for Commander Richard E. Byrd's Antarctic expedition, but which Byrd later sold. Miss Earhart, acting as co-pilot on the flight, has been a licensed pilot for several years.

Delay Start Of Atlantic Flight By Miss Earhart

(International News Service)

TREPASSEY BAY, N. F., June 5.—Miss Amelia Earhart, who hopes to be the first woman to successfully span the Atlantic by air, and her two veteran companions, Wilmer Stultz and Lou Gordon, were hoping to take off for England from the Harbor here sometime today.

A leak in the gas tank and high winds threatened today to delay the hop off of the big red and gold Fokker monoplane.

It had been planned to leave at noon if the weather permitted but at 10 o'clock the plane had not yet been refueled although there were seven casks of gasoline on hand to be poured into the tank.

Wilmer Stultz, the pilot, and Louis Gordon, the mechanic, said that the leak in the fuel tank had not yet been repaired.

A high northwest wind was blowing. The plane arrived here from Halifax yesterday. On its journey it maintained an average speed of 140 miles an hour, which stamps it as the fastest plane to attempt a trans-Atlantic flight from this side of the ocean.

The slim young aviatrix, who closely resembles Col. Charles A. Lindberg, will relieve Stultz at the controls, as will Gordon, the mechanic. Stultz, in addition to piloting part of the time, will do the navigating and operate the ship's wireless.

Girl Flier Is Engaged To Wed

Reveal Budding Romance Of Intrepid Amelia Earhart And Young Chemist

FIANCEE DOES NOT OBJECT TO FLIGHT

(International News Service)

MEDFORD, Mass., June 5.—The romance of Miss Amelia Earhart, budding and blooming under the sunny skies of southern California and continuing to thrive though transplanted to the east, was disclosed today by friends of the "girl Lindy", now ready to hop in the three-motored plane "Friendship", from the new hemisphere to the old.

Tales of a man and a maid, born strangers in Los Angeles at the time of their meeting by accident and of love at first sight, were told by the intimates of Miss Earhart and Samuel Chapman, Tufts college graduate, native of Marblehead and formerly of Los Angeles.

Love flights high into the air, flights upon which tiny love billets, signed Amelia, were wafted from the blue to the building in which Chapman, a chemist, worked, were narrated.

Since the return of the couple from the Pacific slope, their engagement has been kept secret, having been known to only a few friends of the couple.

The idyllic quality of their romance was revealed by Mrs. Emily Chapman, mother of Chapman. Mrs. Chapman revealed that her son had known for some time of the contemplated flight to Europe. Samuel, she said, approved of Miss Earhart's attempt to span the ocean.

"He believes that a woman has a right to her own career," smiled Mrs. Chapman. "Even if they were married, I do not think that Samuel would offer the slightest objection to Amelia's trip to England."

Lindy Arrives At St. Louis As Nation Searches

Considerable Anxiety Had Been Aroused Over His Delayed Arrival

WAS ON TRIP FROM FORT WORTH, TEXAS

Left Texas Without Announcing His Destination Monday Afternoon

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 5.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh landed in St. Louis here today safely after a trip from Fort Worth, Texas, where he left at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

He came to earth here at 10:40 o'clock this morning.

Lindbergh came to St. Louis from the Ozark regions of Missouri officials of the Robertson Aircraft Corporation told International News Service.

The Flying Colonel spent the night safely the officials said declining to name the town where he had landed.

The airport attaches said his plane was intact, and that the Colonel himself had suffered no injuries.

Efforts to get in touch with Lindbergh were fruitless. The Colonel was working on his plane. He refused to make a statement on his flight.

FORT WORTH, Texas, June 5.—Officials at the municipal air port here today were without information as to the probable whereabouts of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Lindbergh made a brief surprise visit to the local air port yesterday and took off for an unannounced destination about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, William G. Fuller, manager of the port, stated today. Fuller said he asked Lindbergh where he was headed for and the

High School Players Close Season Most Successfully, Presenting "The Poor Nut"

If Hans Anderson had been assigned to cover "The Poor Nut" which was presented in the Senior High School Monday evening, he probably would have started this story with "once upon a time there was a poor little boy."

But Hans never worked on this paper, and anyway all that sort of "poor little boy" stuff is out. Hans preceded Freud by several generations and as we see it now, some of the poor little boys described by the king of fairy stories, were probably suffering from complexes which had never been psycho-analyzed.

A Study in Psycho-analysis

But the Brothers Nugent, J. C. and Elliott, who wrote "The Poor Nut" had the advantage of Freud, if this is any advantage and their college comedy concerning John Miller who is the "Poor Nut" of Ohio State is one of the most amusing college plays of a decade.

It concerns the metamorphosis of a book worm into an athletic hero, a youth who not only availed himself of the privilege of looking dumb, but abused the privilege. Nobody could possibly be as dumb as this lad looked unless he were twins. Miller had an inferiority complex, according to Julia Winters of the University of Wisconsin. He was an invert. His libido was turned inward, his ego was impeded, and horrors, he loved flowers. He probably used sugar on his tomatoes also, but this fact was not brought out.

Had the trouble been physical, say a touch of hair lip, or an attack of fallen arches, the case would have been simple, but being a mental condition it required some expert attention and Julia was an expert in psycho-analysis. Through her manipulation of his complexes John wins the mile relay for Ohio, and goes so far as to get dressed up. The rest of the answer is easy, the original of the species being found in Horatio Alger's endings.

What a Poor Nut

As the "Poor Nut" Elmer Williams did the best work he has ever done in high school dramatics. Not for a moment was he out of character, not once did he over do it, and for the first time in several years a male lead in a high school play stood out from the rest of his cast. For Williams did that thing, nor is it any reflection upon the others of the cast to say that he did. All of the Poor Nut cast performed splendidly but you can add fifteen per cent to William's score.

Of course playing around with

Girl Loser In Fight For Life

Chicago Medical Girl Student, Daughter Of State College Professor, Dies Of Poisoning

WAS DESPONDENT OVER LOVE AFFAIR

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 5.—Love was loser today in the fight to restore to health Miss Helen B. Owens, medical student at the University of Chicago.

Three weeks ago Miss Owens swallowed a mysterious slow-acting poison while despondent over parental objections to her marriage to John Myers, a young Pittsburgh engineer. She died last night after a valiant fight to live.

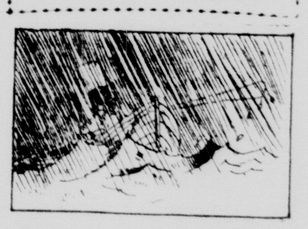

When news of the suicide attempt reached the young coed's parents, Professor and Mrs. Frederick W. Owens of State College, Pa., they rushed to her bedside. Young Meyers, her sweetheart, came with them.

For three weeks, while physicians fought the insidious advance of the poison with every agency known to medical science, these three, now linked together for a joint purpose, were in constant attendance.

The girl was assured there were no longer any objections to her marriage. It was hoped this would inspire a will to live sufficient to conquer the effects of the poison. A dozen blood transfusion operations were resorted to, all without avail.

The trio that kept the vigil day and night through the long ordeal were near collapse when the end came.

Rain, gobs of it slathering down, rain, sheets of it, spattering the town. Rain, lakes of it, drenching the crops, rain, watering the spuds and the hops. Not just a little bit, cooling the streets, gusts of it, buckets full, falling in sheets. Rivers arising and flooding the banks, gutters that look like some overfilled tanks. Rain, what a lot of it, steadily pouring, keeps down the mercury, that should be soaring, rain, and more rain, how the elements play, drenching us, soaking us, sixty today.

PACIFIC FLIERS REST TO PREPARE FOR FINAL HOP

on the next leg of their daring attempt to link the continents of North America and Australia by air.

Next Hop 1,795 Miles

Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith, commander of the air expedition, told a group of friends this afternoon that the plane, which so faithfully carried him and his three companions over more than 5,500 miles of sea in two hops, would be unable to lift its weight off the ground at Albert Park, where the huge craft landed.

The tanks of the Southern Cross, Captain Kingsford-Smith declared, will be loaded with 950 gallons of gasoline for the take-off to Brisbane, Australia, 1,795 miles from here. The weight of the plane will be too much to allow it to clear the ground in the short runway at Albert Park, the flight commander said, adding that he would personally inspect several beaches and flats in the colony to discover a stretch of ground where a take-off could be made.

To Resume Trip Friday

The four courageous airmen of the Southern Cross, Captain Kingsford-Smith, Captain Charles T. P. Ulm, Harry W. Lyon and James Warner, will probably not start on the third leg of their journey until Friday.

The runway in the park is only 400 yards long and 75 yards wide. This condition, it was pointed out, while suitable for a landing, renders it difficult for a huge craft, loaded with a fuel supply for a long distance flight, to lift its weight from the ground.

The runway is situated close to the seashore and is backed by groups of houses and nearby hills. At the take-off end a shoreline road threads its way, immediately beyond which there is the ocean.

Great Crowd Cheers Heroes

The cheers of Fiji Islands inhabitants today were still ringing in the ears of the four daring airmen.

A roaring crowd of 10,000 spectators, composed of both white people and natives, swarmed to the park yesterday to witness the landing of the huge silver-winged plane.

The landing of the Southern Cross was described by air experts here who witnessed it as perfect.

So great was the enthusiasm of the crowds at the field that it took all the resources of the colonial police to restrain them from virtually mobbing the four aviators.

The flyers were feted by natives and island officials, although they spent most of the day in rest. Tomorrow the festivities in their honor will be featured by the presentation to each member of the Southern Cross crew of a whale's tooth, the greatest symbol of good will and wishes for success in Fijian tradition. The presentation will be made by the chief of the island tribes.

candidacy ever came up to a national convention any more efficiently and militantly organized than that of Hoover. A striking example of this was furnished in the first day's skirmishing before the national committee. The full strength of the national committee is 106 members. They sit as judge and jury over these seventy-odd delegate contests. The first roll call disclosed twenty-odd absentees, that is, members not represented by proxies. Within an hour after the first roll call, five of Hoover's managers had obtained proxies and were sitting on the jury that passed on the claims of the Hoover delegates to seats in the convention. Two of these were paid employes of the Hoover organization. That is a fair example of the alertness and the efficiency of the Hoover organization. The motto seems to be "overlook no bets."

Strong Opposition.

The opposition to Hoover is admittedly strong, and at the same time it is admittedly weak in organization. The anti-Hoover forces had the same opportunity to secure these proxies as did the Hoover managers. The fact that they didn't is perhaps the best indication of the lack of organization and direction in the field against the secretary of commerce. It remains to be seen whether this opposition can be captained by the time the convention gets down to balloting, probably ten days from today. If it can be organized and centrally directed, they may "stop him." If not, the outlook from the opposition standpoint admittedly is not bright.

However, the Anti-Hoover camp drew some small comfort from the fact that two of the real powers in the convention, Charles D. Hilles of New York, and Wm. M. Butler of Massachusetts, cast their votes against the seating of the Hoover delegates. New York and Massachusetts and Pennsylvania necessary to the Hoover cause.

Vote Causes Surprise.

Butler's vote caused considerable comment. He is not only chairman of the national committee, but is popularly supposed to be President Coolidge's political oracle. The Hoover managers, however, professed not to be disturbed over Butler's vote. They claim the 36 bay states votes as certainly for their man, and that includes Butler's vote, too. They credited Butler's vote for Bean as simply the action of the national chairman in supporting one of the members of his committee, and asserted it had no significance in the matter of the candidacy itself. They are under no such allusion as regards Hilles. He is definitely on the other side. Pennsylvania was absent, being represented neither actually nor by proxy.

Georgia, Louisiana and Mississippi contests were on the schedule today. The Hoover candidacy is an issue in all of them.

had heard weak fragmentary radio signals last night that he believed came from the Italia. Atmospheric interference prevented him from understanding the signals.

Plan Relief Expedition

A relief expedition, including Russian scientists, is expected to depart from Archangel for Franz Josef Land on the ice breaker Percey immediately. However, it will take three weeks to make the trip. If, as believed in some quarters, the Italia was forced down upon Franz Josef Land, airplanes probably will be utilized in carrying food and other supplies to keep the explorers alive until they can be taken off.

The soviet Russia relief committee met this afternoon to consider other means of aiding the search for Gen. Umberto Nobile and his companions.

Other Russian stations reported that they had heard the Italia calling three separate stations—the Soviet stations SOB and PRU and the American station KZF. None of the messages gave the location of the dirigible except that received at Obdorsk.

In view of these repeated calls for assistance, no doubt exists here that the Italia ha been wrecked in Franz Josef Land, and is attempting to pick up messages announcing that relief is being sent.

maids like Ethel Brookover and Anna Marie Black who took the parts of Margerie Black and Julia Hoyt is enough inspiration for any player and this undoubtedly had something to do with it. Fred Blaha had the part of Spike Hoyt, the "willun" so to speak and unused as he is to villany, the young man did exceedingly well.

These were the lead roles. Under the heading of secondary leads would come Wallie Pierce (Robert Weingartner), Magpie Welch, (Louis Hazen), Coach Jackson (Frank Sandifer), and Colonel Small (Frank Palmer). Other roles were Hub Smith (Anthony Bullano), Professor Deming (Harold Burton), Doc Spurney, (Frank Mele), A Freshman (Hony Annecilo), Reggie (Mary E. Foster), Betty (Frances Turner), Helen, (Thelma Seroka), and Ruth (Virginia Slee). All of the parts were so welded together by the skillful direction of Miss Clara Hartsuff that what would be just a bit for some players was made to stand out as an important piece of business.

As for the cheering section composed of about twenty examples of American pulchritude, you really have to see them in action to appreciate them. If you can imagine a bouquet of American beauty roses suddenly becoming vocal, you have some idea. All together, and taken apart, the Poor Nut was a splendid example of what can be done in high school dramatics and customers it was done plenty on Monday night.

Between the acts the audence was entertained by a band concert by the Senior band, the Girls Glee Club directed by Miss Isabelle Zehner, and an Indian club drill that was a skillful piece of work.

colonel declined to reveal his next stop.

Officials of the Texas Air Transport likewise were without information regarding Lindbergh's possible destination.

Begin Search

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The army air corps today instituted a radio and telegraphic search for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, unheard from since he took off from Fort Worth, Texas yesterday at 1 p. m.

Army airports throughout the country were canvassed for a report of the Flying Colonel's safe landing. Military posts in virtually every state were requested to report word of his arrival in their territory.

Some Apprehension

St. Louis, June 5.—Considerable apprehension was felt for the safety of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today with announcement from the airport here that the Flying Colonel had failed to arrive during the night. Every effort was being made to locate him. Lindbergh left Fort Worth Texas at 1 o'clock yesterday.

Fear He Is Forced Down

Chicago, June 5.—Officials of the Municipal Airport and the Maywood Air Mail flying fields here today expressed fears that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh had been forced down because of unfavorable weather conditions.

Col. Lindbergh was scheduled to arrive at St. Louis following his hop off from Fort Worth, Tex.

Airport officials here stated today pilots flying in from the west report extremely poor visibility, winds, fog, rain and other unpleasant and slightly dangerous flying weather.

No Word

Pittsburgh, June 5.—Officials at Bettis Field, Rodgers Field, the Government Airport, and Mayer Field, Bridgeville, Greater Pittsburgh's three airports, have no word of the whereabouts of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, for whom a nation-wide search is under way today.

Middletown, Pa., June 5.—Officials at the Government landing field here said they had no word of the whereabouts of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh who failed to arrive at St. Louis last night after hopping off from Fort Worth, Tex.

Philadelphia, June 5.—A survey of the flying fields surrounding Philadelphia failed to reveal any information of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh up to 12:30 p. m. this afternoon. Navy Yard officials and attendants at the Pitcairn Aviation field expressed the opinion the famous trans-Atlantic aviator could not have reached Philadelphia after taking off from Fort Worth, Texas, at 1 p. m. yesterday. Col. Lindbergh's plane would not have carried sufficient fuel to permit of his flight here without a stop, Navy officials said.

Facts About Optometry

By
ARTHUR B. FOSTER
OPTOMETRIST,
449 East Washington Street

Inhabitants of both city and country need the Optometrist. All men and women who reach middle life should assist their eyes with glasses when they read, sew, or do other close work. Then there is a large class whose eyes are almost or quite normal, whose work demands the constant use of their eyes, who should get the help of glasses during working hours.

The above shows the value of Optomeiry to the public, or rather the public need of the profession.

AN EXAMPLE OF EVERY-DAY HEROISM

THE heroism of the world is not confined to the battlefield. Many thrilling examples are to be found in every-day life. One instance which has been brought to the attention of the public is that of Fred F. Brown, who has just been awarded the Vail gold medal "for the most noteworthy act of public service by a telephone company employee."

It occurred during the disastrous floods in New England last year. The roads were under water and Montpelier, the capital of Vermont and the center of organized flood relief, had been entirely deprived of telephone communication with the remainder of the flooded section. The overflowing river at that point had washed away a pole filled with copper wires. Brown and two helpers found it eventually. The wires had become tangled in such a way as to create a short circuit. They were hanging between two poles, hundreds of feet apart. What was to be done? Brown volunteered to disentangle the wires. He hooked his safety belt over the wires and worked his way, hand-over-hand, to the source of the tangle above the rushing waters of the Wells River. He finished his job safely and in a short time communication was reestablished with the isolated capital.

Brown is a rather common name, but this particular Brown proved himself to be an uncommon person. He richly deserves the medal which has been bestowed upon him, although he does not look upon himself as a hero, and probably felt that what he did was part of his job. It is cheering to reflect that this kind of devotion to duty is by no means rare. There are thousands of loyal, devoted employees who would not hesitate to do what Fred F. Brown did if the necessity arose. And there are many other thousands, who never get in the limelight, who perform their humble duties faithfully and as part of the day's work.

ARBITRATION VS. LITIGATION

ARBITRATION as a substitute for jury trial is of slow evolution, but there are signs that dissatisfaction with civil court procedure is having marked effect in encouraging use of the less complicated scheme to settle many kinds of civil disputes. It is striking evidence of the power of society to create instruments to serve its needs.

In a number of states the enormous amount of litigation resulting from automobile accidents is focusing attention upon the possibility that workmen's compensation laws may point the way to sound treatment of this new court problem. In the business world commercial arbitration is urged as a speedier, more economical and more direct method than an appeal to law.

The measure of success that attends the endeavor is indicated by a large casualty insurance company which has announced the purpose to try out arbitration for a year. Claims for damages under its policies would be adjusted under the rules of the American Arbitration Association. This is following the example of the motion picture industry, in which most internal differences are automatically disposed of by arbitration.

For improvement in administration of criminal justice society must look to the bench and the bar. In civil and equity procedure, extension of the practice of arbitration is the most simple method of evading the tedious, uncertain and expensive processes of the courts.

Arbitration in damage suits is a step toward that idealistic stage—which the superman may establish—in which the person in the wrong will recognize and confess his position and engage no counsel to prove him in the right.

HUMANE TRAPPING METHODS

IN A contest promoted by the American Humane Association and the National Association of the Fur Industry, 75 inventors have submitted more than a hundred traps designed to be more humane than devices now in use to capture wild animals. Money prizes will shortly be awarded for those of the new traps which are adjudged to be most successfully adapted to the trapping of fur-bearing animals and which show the greatest progress in humane methods of catching.

Much ingenuity was displayed by the inventors, it is reported, in their endeavors to improve upon the usual leg-grabbing type of steel trap to which so much objection has been raised because it often mutilates and severely injures the animals and leaves them to suffer. The devices entered in the current competition were submitted from all parts of the United States and from many countries of Europe. A majority of the new traps are designed to take the animals alive and unhurt, while most of the others aim to kill more humanely. By use of the former, young or unwanted animals can be released.

There is much to commend the efforts of the two organizations to pave the way for more humane treatment of wild animals. They are an answer to the wide protests in former years against the use of methods that were properly described as a disgrace to civilization. The problem is not yet solved, but mankind has gone a long way in his treatment of animals. The more progress it makes in that direction, the farther will it have traveled from the primitive stages of civilization. The world of today still has a legitimate use for the pelts of fur-bearing animals, but it wants them procured in the most humane way possible.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 7:27. Sun rises tomorrow 4:29.

All the young ladies who make up jokes are not humorists. Some work in beauty parlors.

A local school teacher got a shock yesterday when she asked a young chap to make a sentence using the word "Diadem". He answered: "People who drive on the railroad tracks diadem sight quicker than those who stop, look and listen!"

A compositor in setting up the toast "Woman—without her, man would be a savage," got the punctuation in the wrong place, which made it read "Woman, without her man, would be a savage."

A fellow from Scott township was standing in front of a store on Washington street when he saw a sign reading "Ladies Ready to Wear Clothes." "Well, it's dern near time, if you ask me," was his comment.

What Worried Him.

One colored brother approached another with a worried look in his eye.

"Ah just got a unanimous lettah an' ah's worried most sick."

"What you mean, unanimous?" inquired his friend.

"Unanimous," explained the victim, "means ain't got no name signed to it. It says if yo' all don't let mah wife alone, Ah gwine to bus' yo' wide open."

"Well, why yo' all worry about that? All you got to do am to let dis man's wife alone."

"Look heah, Stupidness. Didn't Ah just tole yo' this was a unanimous lettah? How Ah gwine to know whose wife to let alone?"

We spent the week-end at Conneaut Lake. The newspaper publishers spend a few days at this popular resort each year. There is always a big crowd from western Pennsylvania, eastern Ohio and southern New York. This may be caused by the fact that the whole outing is free to the publishers. Anyhow they all have a good time at the wonderful place.

It's about time for some one to ask that Hickman out in the jail in California waiting to be hung or something, what he attributes his long life—or low life—to.

A candidate for attorney general in Ohio says: "A government is not living up to its purpose when more is collected in taxes than is rendered in service." It's wonderful what nice language some birds can use as an argument for being elected to some office. Some even declare they could reduce taxes.

In a bunch of interesting zoological facts we read recently we were impressed particularly by the statement that the gibbon is the only ape that habitually walks upright. Imagine that! An ape that is habitually upright! Why, we don't know any men who can fill that description.

We think the poet who wrote that man wants but little here below did not know many men in a business way.

If you do as well this year as you did last you will still be out of jail and pursuing happiness. Here's hoping you overtake it.

We read this: "When you pass a home and smell a cake burning it's a sign the home is on a party line." We cannot conceive of anyone being base enough to listen in on a party line. Surely no human would be guilty of that.

A dog fills an empty space in a man's life—especially a hot dog.

Tooting.

A stranger who was rather deaf entered a little Scotch church. He seated himself in a front pew and placed an ear trumpet on his knee. An elder of the kirk, who had never seen an ear trumpet, watched him with grave suspicion.

When the minister entered, the man lifted the trumpet from his knee, but before he could adjust it he felt a tap on his shoulder and heard the indignant elder saying:

"One toot, an' you're oot."

It seems to us when all the improvements are being made on the jails the wonder is that a fine library is not established in them also. It would surely be enlightening if the books were not carried out too much.

Usually you can tell just by looking at a man that he likes to tell how much his cigarettes cost.

A West Virginia woman is in jail because she mixed poison with the moonshine she gave her husband to drink. She sure wanted to be doubly sure of croaking him. If she had mixed moonshine with the poison the result would have been the same.

New York girl was selected out of 3000 entrants as having the "most perfect legs." They will be used by hosiery manufacturers as the standard for American girls. How many will reach that standard?

Col. Lindbergh always carries his attorney with him on his flights. If he ever gets tired of his lawyer all he has to do is to dump him out and the bill is canceled. Lindbergh is a careful chap. He don't even let a woman get any too near to him, unless it's his mother.

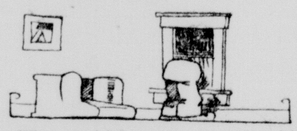

If we had our way no beggar would be allowed to work on the streets of New Castle. We pay taxes to take care of all unfortunates. This would be doubly true in the case where they come from other cities and try to make a clean-up here and then chuckle about it as many have done. All unfortunates should be treated fairly and the public should demand the same courtesy from them.

We do not think that Mr. Ford will ever go into a combination to raise the prices of automobiles. He may make others lower theirs' however.

It's always a relief to us when the most bowlegged girl in the crowd gets 'em crossed, and we're always afraid she isn't going to make the riffle this time.

We have lettuce ready to use that was raised out in the open in our garden. Our first green onion crop is about done and radishes of some tough kind or another are shaping up into pulling size, but we are not sure about the eating qualities of them. We like green stuff in the garden early and that's why we raise a few radishes.

We are beginning to feel pretty sure that Al Smith will be nominated, provided he doesn't take any advice.

When a hick moves to town, his hardest job consists in trying not to give a darn where the fire is.

The politicians are gradually doing their worst to discredit Hoover. By the time of the convention he will be out of the running if the real people do not wake up and give him a fair deal and the consideration he so richly deserves. Hoover is a doer and that's bad when one wants an office.

Mandy was eating her lunch when a neighbor came in with the ill tidings.

"Mandy," the visitor warned her, "prepare yourself for some powerful bad news. Your husband has just been in the worst accident."

"Land sakes," broke in Mandy, "if Rastus am dead, you sure am goin' to hear some awful wailin' soon's I finish dis yere meal."

It is claimed that the seventeen year locusts are already in evidence in Pennsylvania. We have been looking for one of those things all our lives and the nearest we ever came to it was an army worm. If we see one we will grapple with it.

All the bad little boys are sorry that school is about over for this year and they are crying because they will not see dear teacher until next fall. YES! Also uh-huh!

It is said that radio voices may wander about through the ether indefinitely, possibly to be picked up 100 years hence. Our pity goes out to any scientist who picks up one of the recent holiday dance programs and solemnly tries to analyze its meaning.

One day last week bootlegging bail jumpers in Mercer county enriched that county to the extent of thirteen thousand real American dollars when fifteen defendants forfeited their bonds. Every term of court this happens in Mercer county and it seems to be more profitable to the county to get the money than to send all the bootleggers to the jail house. Why this particular condition exists in Mercer county at every term of court is unknown to us, but it seems to be a good thing.

They have finally started to knock Col. Lindbergh. He is now accused of having a "swelled head." If there is anything like that in the world we do not know of anyone who could assume one better than the youthful colonel. Some of the birds who have never done anything big are probably the ones who are criticizing Lindbergh. That is the kind of blimps who always do the knocking anyhow.

The sale of sugar has fallen off half a million tons in less than a year and this condition is blamed on the fact that humans, we presume mostly women who are dieting, have ceased to use much sweets. The sugar planters can now join the cotton growers who are suffering from the invasion of silk things for wearing purposes, although scantily.

Another "political latest," says a great bloc of Coolidge delegates has been organized. At the Kansas City start President Coolidge will be put in nomination for a second elective term. The convention will be stampeded, Coolidge will be nominated and it will be all over. Like other important information that may lack accuracy. They may stampede a convention. But can they stampede Coolidge?

Anyhow the national debt was reduced by $1,118,140,130 last year. Our debt is down below eighteen thousand million dollars, less than $180 per American, hardly enough to buy a motorcycle. What does that amount to?

Following the war, came the era of billions. Now here and there the trillion crops up.

Production of electric water power breaking records recently shows an output for April of two trillion nine hundred and forty billion kilowatt hours. No wonder those that control power and hire professors, editors and such to denounce government ownership. No wonder it is possible to finance defeat of the government's Boulder Dam plan.

However those that produce power do good work in conservation. April's hydro-electric power would have required 27,000,000 tons of coal, manufactured in the old way.

Accidents are greatly reduced where electric power replaces steam. And always in the shadow, sitteth the law of eminent domain, which can be used if needed.

You could not guess what takes Prof. Crampton from Columbia University to the high valleys in tropical islands. North of New Guinea and South of Japan he goes to study land snails. They will be prodded, observed biologically interpreted and science will learn about evolution from them.

You could not make those snails understand that a higher analytical brain will find why they differ from valley to valley, from mountain to mountain. The poor partula—that is their scientific name—would say: "Don't talk nonsense to us about a higher mind."

That is what some scientists say when you suggest the possibility of a cosmic thinking mind above theirs. Like the partula, they KNOW that no such being exists since their telescopes can't find him. The little, peering horns of the land snails with eyes at the ends will not identify Prof. Crampton.

Prof Burstall genuine British highbrow, tells Oxford that human beings are lazy and he is glad of it. Laziness makes us find ways to do things easily, quickly. The working day will be reduced to five hours within a generation. As for domestic servants, that "slavery" will soon be a thing of the past.

Also science will enable man to make a heaven on earth if he has brains enough to go in the right direction.

Interesting promises, but not surprising. A machine can do as much with one man's guidance as 100 men could do without the machine. Men's work may be reduced to pushing buttons one hour in 24. Let's hope it won't come soon.

A lady in Massachusetts is criticized her sanity questioned for these trifling reasons.

When her first husband died she dressed him in a black and white check suit with celluloid collar, brilliant red necktie and a diamond stickpin. He had bought those things for a trip to Florida.

When the second died she buried him close to No. 1 leaving between them just room enough for herself.

The judge decided there was no proof of insanity in that arrangement. There might have been danger in the celluloid collar, unless the widow knew just where her husband was going.

THE CITY HOME

Although the moters rush along
And wild flowers grow no more,
And fled are all the birds of song
To nest beyond the roar.
Although the trees are coming down
To make more room for men,
'Tis home within the busy town
To which I turn again.

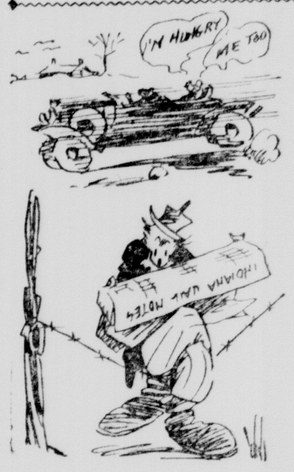

'Tis not a winding lane I fare
But one that's straight and wide,
The pavements now are cold and bare,
Long since the flowers have died,
But still I keep a patch of grass,
And save a rose or two
For all the busy men who pass
In summer time to view.

The city home is on a street
Where once the wild flowers grew,
And once the song birds used to meet
On meadows wet with dew.
Now wall by wall the houses stand
And all the trees have gone
And concrete covers far the land
The cattle grazed upon.

For commerce drives the birds away
With all its noisy roar,
And speeds its motors day by day
Where wild flowers grew before.
And progress builds the busy town
By piling bricks in air,
But still it's home when night comes down,
And all life's joys are there.

THE RIGHT TO HARD KNOCKS

A mother recently complained that her son had not appreciated her. She had done everything for him, slaved and sacrificed for him and always helped him. Why this ingratitude?

This mother it turned out had committed a great wrong against her child. The trouble is she had always intervened between him and the consequences of his evil deeds.

We have a right to those consequences, for that is the way we learn about living.

Every boy has an inalienable right to bump his own nose and bark his own shins. When the mother is constantly intervening, to protect him from the effects of his own mistakes, she is robbing him of the privilege of learning the greatest lessons of life.

In after years we find ourselves more thankful for our rebuffs than for our successes. To paraphrase the Scripture, with our stripes, that is, our own stripes, we are healed.

When we get to Heaven and look back over this earthly career, we will be much more grateful for our knocks than our boosts.

Very often our enemies perform for us our greatest service.

When a man the other day swindled me out of some money and when I had to grin and bear it rather than go through the long process of litigation, I reflected after all I would rather be swindled than be the swindler.

I once had an uncle whom a man had cheated out of $5,000. We all asked him why he didn't sue the man and get his money back.

"Well," he said, "I would only make a lot of enemies and, besides, I can make $5,000 much more quickly than I could get the money back from him."

If we would lay aside our vindictive feelings we would, most of us, find that it is cheaper to go ahead constructively than to get even with somebody that has wronged us.

Our hard knocks are our inalienable right, and properly taken or taken in the right spirit, they teach us our best lessons.

Ruskin said that false religion compounds with sin, while true religion stops it.

The baby learns about the hot stove by burning his fingers, and the way we all learn about the things in life that threaten our welfare is by being occasionally bitten or injured.

Let your boy take his lesson, dear mother, and quit stepping in between him and the rod.

Tomorrow—A Boy's Hero.

RUBBER!

Fortunate it was that Wordsworth, Keats and Shelley and the other exponents of the poetry of the open fields and sky, did not survive the turn of the century. It is fearful to speculate what dire effects the following except from a booklet published by the Rubber Growers' Association of London would have had upon the sensitive souls of the nineteenth century naturalists:

"To try to enumerate the countless advantages of the beautiful rubber flowers is almost impossable in this short space. Their uses are many and varied, both where real flowers have hitherto been used, also where real flowers have refused to bloom. On long sea voyages you can have the luxury of fresh flowers daily to match your frock, flowers in your cabin and flowers everywhere. Gone are the days when you secretly pressed a faded rose in the pages of a book. You can now wear and gaze daily on his little token of affection—a rubber rose, and with each day revive the memorable moment of the gift. Orange blossoms and Madonna lillies! These ethereal blooms and a never-forgotten day! How many women have longed for those flowers at last. Likewise, a basket of carnations, violets or heatsease from him to her, conveying silent messages in their own language, not only for that once but for many days after."

TRAINS AND PLANES

The country is still talking about the announcement a few weeks ago that trains and airplanes will work together on a 48 or 52-hour schedule between New York and the Pacific coast. That will undoubtedly be a reality, and so will many other achievements undreamed of a few years ago. And yet one wonders whether, due to the immense amount of publicity given flying, we are not all getting a little off balance on the subject of airplanes and what they can do.

IMMIGRANTS

Canada needs people. She has millions of fertile acres and enormous forests and yet her whole population is not much greater than that of New York City and the metropolitan district surrounding it. But some of the most influential of the Canadians are insisting that the newcomers be Britishers.

They shouldn't be too insistent so long as immigrants are good, hard-working people with good intentions. Various parts of the United States were settled by great groups of immigrants and they have come to be Americans of the best sort. For example, this country can never be too grateful to Norway and Sweden for the great contribution which those countries made to our northwest.

SOARING STOCKS

When stocks move so fast and go so high that they generate the belief that stock speculation is the quickest and best way to easy riches, the day will come when the boom is over. The fact so many people are attracted into the stock market by the marvelous activity there is the very reason the slump must come. Too much buying and selling will destroy the very structure of riches which it seems to build. There is no such thing, on land or sea, as always going up.

BACK SEAT DRIVING

An Englishman has invented an automobile body that carries a back seat which is reversible. Turn it around and the occupant is looking out the back of the automobile, the back being of glass. The idea, of course, is to quiet the back-seat driver who sees all, but unfortunately does not know all.

Of course, the inventor is short on his knowledge of human nature. He should know that the nervous back-seat driver will be all the more nervous when he (or she) cannot see the road ahead.

THE MUSEUM IDEA.

Americans are just beginning to realize that the past is precious. The lives of the American Republic and the Dominion that is her close neighbor have been so brief that it has not been possible until recently for Americans to visualize the past as a heritage that is of great importance to all of us.

Now that we are realizing it we are thinking a great edal about the past. History and biography are becoming vastly more important than they ever have been before. And we are giving more attention to museums.

America, becoming more conscious of a glorious past is reaching out to preserve for future generations some of the reminders of days that are gone. To me this seems a wholesome trend full of inspiration.

Big museums are expensive if operated from a strictly modern and efficient basis. A few million dollars is a small legacy for the Metropolitan Museum of Arts in New York. But I believe there is no town in America too small to preserve some of the interesting evidences of its past.

The oldest museum in America I am told, is the Charleston (S. C.) museum. I have spent many pleasant and profitable hours in it. But it isn't at all an expensive institution. It is one of the institutions in which the Charlestonians take great pride. But when people have been through as many ups and downs as have the citizens of Charleston during the last three hundred years they know right well that a thing needn't be expensive in order to be desirable.

In the Charleston musenm there is order and cleanliness but the furnishings and furniture are of the simplest kind and have been built I suspect by museum employes. Exhibits are valuable beyond price but nearly all of them have been donated by Charlestonians.

If the inhabitants of a city have historical sense and if they appreciate their own traditions they will cooperate to make a public museum interesting and attractive. They need not spend much money in order to collect and maintain a museum that will be interesting to future generations as well as to those who are living now.

Henry Ford is creating in Michigan a great American museum. He is doing the work on a fordian scale with whole villages moved in as exhibits. It is going to be one of America's most interesting collection of reminders of the past.

But the citizens of any small town can do as well by their own community as Ford is doing for the country in the matter of museum

City Firemen Battle Service Station Blaze In Walmo District

A near serious fire occurring last night about 10:45 o'clock at the Walmo service station, north of the city and owned by Paul Keeley, did damage exceeding $100 at the service station. The exact cause of the fire has not been determined, but it is believed that gasoline placed in an old abandoned tank over the week-end, which in turn leaked out and along the piping until the fumes became quite heavy and filled the cellar, and when the fumes reached the level of the fire in the furnace there was an explosion, which blew out the windows of the cellar, of the service station, also the large plate glass window and other windows in the front and sides of the service station. A real blaze followed the explosion.

Assistance was asked of the city fire department and Chief Charles H. Lynn and the Park avenue fire truck left at once for the scene of the fire. This was about 10:45 o'clock. The city firemen arrived in record time and the flames were subdued after a real stubborn battle. Fortunately the service station is of brick and prevented the general spread of the flames. The fire was out and the firemen en route back to the city in approximately 20 minutes.

The tank in question had been out of service for some time. In an emergency gasoline was placed in it during the week-end. It is thought that the gasoline leaked from the tank and along the line into the cellar of the place until the explosion resulted from the fumes in contact with the fire in the furnace. The alarm was turned in at 10:45 o'clock from box 19.

As the chief and the Park avenue company were en route to the city on the return trip the fire whistle sounded another alarm. It proved to be box 213, calling the firemen to the home of E. B. Shilton, 508 East Winter avenue. The chief, Park avenue and central fire engines answered this call.

At the Shilton home the gas fire was on in the parlor and the woodwork began to scorch and the firemen were called. The loss here was about $25.

Earlier in the evening, about six o'clock, an alarm from box 42 called the firemen to 618 Pearson street, where James Heasley resides. Mr. Heasley had a fire in the stove and the heat of the stove caused the wallpaper to leave the walls and fall on the stove. The paper ignited and there was quite a blaze in the place when the firemen were called. The fire was out when the firemen arrived. The loss was placed at about $20.

Real Relief Came When He Started With New Konjola

"It Is Wonderful", He Says; Completely Restored His Health In Every Way.

MR. LEWIS JOHN

Disorders of the important functionary organs of the body are common among thousands of people—some of them being chronic and others slight. For the purpose of ending such ailments, this new medicine has been prepared.

It is no longer an experiment but a treatment of recognized worth. The untold number of signed statements from former sufferers proves this. Cases are cited every day by local people telling how Konjola restored normal activity to the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels or relieved stubborn instances of neuritis and rheumatism. One of the latest reports came from Mr. Lewis John, 512 Elizabeth street, New Castle, who gave the following statement to the Konjola Man who is at the Love and Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street.

"I strongly indorse Konjola", said Mr. John, "Become it is a wonderful medicine and has brought new health over my entire system and gave me amazing relief from kidney trouble and a general rundown condition.

"I was suffering every day with kidney trouble. My whole system was awfully rundown and all during the day my back ached so much that it was almost impossible for me to bend over. Due to the disordered condition of my kidneys I always felt tired and worn-out. I was subject to dizzy spells and very often after I had eaten anything at all, I would have to go and rest for sometimes on account of them. My appetite was poor and it seemed that no matter what I ate, the food did me no good at all. I had an attack of influenza and this left me in a worse condition than before. I never enjoyed a full nights sleep and the next morning I would get up I felt worse then when going to bed. Finally I developed a stubborn case of neuritis in my shoulders that was almost unbearable.

"I noticed in the papers that Konjola was recommended by many local people for such disorders as mine and I finally made up my mind to give this medicine a trial. The first two bottles gave me more relief than all the medicine I have ever taken. My kidneys function properly again and my bowels were regulated by this wonderful compound. As I continued with the treatment my stomach got better until finally I was able to eat anything I wanted without the least bad result afterward. Now a hard eight hours work does not bother me at all. My neuritis has been entirely relieved and your medicine has been a Godsend to me.

"If everyone that suffers as I once did would only try this medicine there would be a lot less sick people in the world and for this reason I am strongly indorsing Konjola."

The Konjola Man is at the Love and Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS—

At the door of the man who is ready to welcome work.
Oftenest at the door of the man who is busy preparing to meet her.
At the door, but it opens from the inside.
But few men hear her if they are cursing their luck.
Patiently at the door of many a man who is knocking her.
But some people are too busy wailing over their defeats to hear.
At every man's door, but she seldom appears the same at any two doors.

Nationalists Control China

Southern Chinese Armies Control China, With Exception Of Manchuria

STRONG DEFENSE LINE IS FORMED

(International News Service)

PEKING, June 5. — Nationalists (south China forces) today control all China, with the exception of Manchuria.

Japanese airmen who made a reconnaissance east of this city reported that forces of Gen. Sun Chuan Fang's southern troops were marching upon Tien-Tsin, the port of this city and the seat of a large foreign colony.

International troops at Tien-Tsin (including Americans) have established a strong defense line around the foreign compound. A military guard has been posted over the municipal water works and the native city.

A terrific explosion took place this morning along the railway line over which the retiring northern troops were moving. It was audible in Peking.

Unconfirmed reports were received here that Marshal Chang Tso Lin, former dictator of the Peking government, is dead in Mukden. Details were not given but it was assumed that, if he really were dead, he had succumbed to wounds sustained when his train was attacked yesterday morning in Manchuria.

This city is quiet. The gates are opened only at brief intervals.

Colleges Shorten Summer Sessions

Over 300 Teachers In Mercer County Will Go To School This Summer

MERCER, Pa., June 5.—Summer schools at both colleges and normals in western Pennsylvania will be but six weeks terms this year, it is announced by educators.

Both Edinboro and Slippery Rock Teachers' Colleges will open for this term on the date of June 25. The term at Grove City College opens on this date.

This is a very unusual departure for the college, which has always maintained a nine weeks term for academic students until this year, breaking a precedent of 25 years.

It is learned that the college will go back to the nine weeks term next summer.

In Mercer county 300 teachers will go to school this summer, state the county educational heads. This number of pedagogues with uncompleted work are teaching in the county schools.

Under the law they must attend summer school until a certain standard is reached, when they are given permanent certificates.

Even teachers with these certificates are required to return to college at periodic intervals.

Arrest Two More In Sheep Stealing

Three Now Held As Result Of Theft Of Sheep Near Enon Valley

County Detective William G. Fleming and State Policemen Munsee and Brush apparently have cleared up the sheep mystery which has prevailed in Enon Valley by the arrest of three of four persons who are in jail, two of whom have pleaded guilty before an alderman. The fourth escaped before he could be apprehended.

According to the officers eight sheep were stolen from the farm of Guy Fullerton, Enon Valley.

Diligent investigation resulted in the apprehension of Charles Smith, Enon road farmer.

He was taken to Butler barracks last night and put through a grilling. He implicated Robert Gorch, Sampson street and Albert Watt, Willard avenue, this city, according to the authorities.

After they were arrested the third man implicated, becoming frightened, decamped before he could be caught.

Smith was given a hearing last night before Squire Rainey, North Beaver township and is held in jail in default of $2,000 bail.

Today Gorsch and Watt were given a hearing on a charge of larceny before Alderman Marshall, this city and pleaded guilty and are held in jail for court.

The Diary of a New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

NEW YORK, June 5.—A barber shop in lower Broadway has shoe-repair and hat-cleaning shops attached. While a customer is getting a haircut and shave he may put his feet into slippers, and have his shoes resoled and his hat reblocked. The same shop gives office service, sending up barbers to shave customers while they work, and carrying off shoes and hats to be repaired and returned before the end of the business day.

At his desk the busy business man may have his nails manicured, his luncheon or dinner served with the regular appointments, his picture taken, his measurements for haberdashery supplied from a portable "store". Hawkers, dealing in candies, and fruits, shoe-laces, pencils, theatre tickets, magazines and books, make regular rounds. One reason why the business man is so busy and has no time is the large number of persons who call upon him with something to save him time.

A composer has a New York symphony scored for "20 taxi horns, 10 trolleys car gongs, four rumblers simulating 'L' trains, four rumblers simulating subway trains, six motor truck horns, four ferry whistles, two tug sirens, two pneumatic rock drills, two riveting machines, 10 yelling newsboys, one fire engine, 16 typewriters, 12 cash registers, one derrick whistle, one dynamite blast, one train announcer and 14 popping champagne bottles.

He hopes to attract a crowd when he puts on a concert in Carnegie hall.

And one Borrah Minevitch, famed harmonica player, proposes to demonstrate with 120 juvenile "musicians" what the innate musical soul of American youth is like. He is rehearsing the strangest "orchestra" ever assembled for a concert in Carnegie hall. The instuments will consist of harmonicas, ocarinas, jewsharps, tuned ginger ale bottles, kazoos, musical funnels, combs, ukeleles and toy percussion makeshifts.

The funny thing amout it is that in New York there always is a paying audience for such things.

Since the prohibition department decided that the sale of ginger ale, charged water, cracked ice, etc., made hotel and restaurant proprietors liable to arrest for dealing in "accessories to crime," or something of the sort, night clubs, etc., have discovered a way to keep within the law and continue to entice trade, making it up in the "couvert".

* * *

In setting down the preceding paragraph, I'll give my mother cause for worry. She reads this Diary, down in Kentucky, and whenever I write about night clubs and such things, she sends me a letter warning me against the effects of keeping late hours and associating with bad company.

Orders New State Accounting System

Governor Orders New System For All State-Owned Institutions

(From News Bureau) (State Capital)

HARRISBURG, June 5.—Governor John S. Fisher has ordered a new accounting system installed in all state-owned institutions within the Department of Welfare. The new system, which will be used in all accounts as of June 1, beginning of the new fiscal year, affects 30 institutions which handle more than $20,000,000 annually.

The new accounting system was devised by Arthur P. Townsend, budget secretary, as a result of audits of the institution's records during the last winter and spring. These audits disclosed necessity of a new system which will be practical, simple and uniform and will show the operations of the institutions for the information of the legislature as well as for the governor, Townsend reported.

A multitude of detail records have been eliminated and the system developed after a careful study of the systems now in use, Townsend said. The change is in line with Governor Fisher's declaration that the business of the state institutions must be conducted upon modern business methods.

Steel Work On Wampum Bridge Over R. R. Tracks

Span Of One Hundred Feet Over Pittsburgh And Lake Erie Erected Yesterday

DRIVING PILING OF RIVER PIER

County Commissioners were at Wampum yesterday where the first steel section of the new bridge was erected over the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie tracks. Work was done by the employes of the bridge company with the aid of Pittsburgh & Lake Erie crane crews. The cranes used were those of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie company. The steel work was hoisted without mishap and all of the different parts went into place nicely.

The steel work reaches from two abutments across the four tracks of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie company. The steel section is about 100 feet long. The steel girders will be encased in cement, which will add greatly to their lasting qualities.

Work is now progressing rapidly on the pier which is to stand in the Beaver river. Piling is being driven to secure a firm foundation. This will be covered with a concrete foundation.

"Never-fail" Recipe for Crushed Strawberry Jam

Once you have tried the new short-boil method of making jams and jellies with Certo you will discard the old, tedious, uncertain way as an out-of-date piece of kitchen drudgery.

Ten glasses of the most delicious Strawberry Jam can be made by the following recipe quickly, easily and with perfect results every time.

Crush about 2 quarts of berries one layer at a time so that each berry is actually crushed or broken up to a pulp. This allows fruit to quickly absorb the sugar during the short boil, and prevents fruit rising to the top or floating. Best results are obtained by running berries through a food chopper. Measure 4 level cups (2 lbs.) crushed berries into a large kettle, add 7 level cups (3 lbs.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard from 1 to 2 minutes, remove from fire and stir in ½ cup Certo. Skim and stir constantly for just 5 minutes after taking from fire to cool slightly, which prevents fruit floating. Then pour quickly and cover hot jam at once with hot paraffin wax.

Certo is the natural jellying substance which has been extracted from fruit, refined and bottled so that perfect jams and jellies can be made without long boiling.

Recommended by a famous expert in cookery

Miss Alice Bradley, Principal, Miss Farmer's School of Cookery and Cooking Editor, Woman's Home Companion, says—

"I strongly advise all housewives to make all their jams and jellies with Certo because: It's easier — Takes only one minute's boiling. Tastes better — No flavor boiled away. Better color — Not darkened by long boiling. No worry — Never fails to set. It's economical — Fifty per cent more from given amount of fruit and no waste from failures."

Get Certo today from your grocer. With each bottle comes a complete book of recipes for making better looking, better flavored jams and jellies the quick, easy Certo way.

Artists' Model Lured To Woods, Attack Victim

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 5.—Authorities were searching for the "bald-headed artist" who yesterday lured Mrs. Margaret Smith, 26, a model, to a lonely spot near Lake Forest, Chicago suburb, where he bound her to a tree and attacked her.

According to the victim's story, the pseudo artist tied her to a tree for the purpose of creating an Indian scene which he wished to paint. He then danced madly about her, brandishing a hatchet with which he threatened her life. She was left in the deserted bit of woods, but managed to free herself.

Ask Council To Lay New Sewer

Several property owners of East Brook road, living within the city limits, requested council today to have a sanitary sewer built in East Brook road, which at present has no sewer system, and it is reported the condition is almost intolerable.

When the road was paved some persons objected to a sanitary sewer, councilmen claim, and this, coupled to the depth it would be necessary to dig to lay a sewer, resulted in the present dilemna.

Council, accompanied by City Engineer Miller, will view the road.

ASKS MINISTERS QUESTIONS

New Castle, Pa.
June 4, 1928.

Editor News:

I would like enough space in your paper to ask the Ministerial association of Lawrence county, why they pick out Cascade park, in their complaint, about Sunday violation, when the carnival which closed last Saturday night ran wide open with all sorts of games of chance for prizes and money?

Personally I believe all of the holders of concessions at Cascade park are citizens of Lawrence county and taxpayers.

Why not enlarge the field and include all the bathing beaches, soda fountains, gas stations and fruit stands?

I have never heard of any one who was asked to go to Cascade park on Sunday or any other day.

Yours truly,
William Sandman.

BELL TO RAISE RATE ON POLICE TELEPHONE BOXES

Bell Telephone Company officials here have advised the city of New Castle that, effective July 1, an increase will be made for use of telephone boxes used by police, providing the public service commission grants the application which, according to members of council, was filed without the city being notified formally until today.

The city has 19 iron boxes in which are telephones and signal lights. They are used as the police alarm system.

Since 1924 the city has been paying 50 cents each box a month. The company plans to increase the cost to $1.00 each box.

This will be a monthly increase of $9.50 and will raise the yearly rental from $1,360.56 to $1,484.56, providing the application for a raise in rates is granted.

The company claims it cannot make any money from the present rental.

The letter giving this information was referred to the city solicitor today, who will advise council how to act.

Chamberlin Is Now Consultant In Airport Work

Famous Trans-Atlantic Flier Made Aeronautics Engineer In New York City

WILL AID BUILDING OF MUNICIPAL AIRPORT

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 5.—Clarence D. Chamberlin, appointed as consultant on construction of the municipal airport at Barren Island, flew in from Harrisburg to start work immediately. His appointment, announced by Michael Cosgrove, dock commissioner, dates from June 1, and is of indefinite duration.

The appointment gives to the ocean flyer the title of aeronautic engineer in the department of docks. At a salary of $1,000 a month he will render "professional and expert services in connection with the laying out and development of the municipal airport of the City of New York."

Chamberlin's appointment came almost a year to the date after he established the world's record for long distance flying in his trans-atlantic hop in the monoplane Columbia with Charles Levine as a passenger.

A year ago Chamberlin was far out over the Atlantic on the second day of his flight from New York to Berlin. He finally landed at Eisleben, having flown 3,911 miles, a record for distance which still stands.

Sororities Have Many Receptions

Much Social Activity Marks Commencement Week At Westminster

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, June 5.—Renewed commencement activity at Westminster College here is reflected in the numerous receptions and luncheons being held for and by the various sororities. This afternoon the local chapter of the Chi Omega sorority entertained the mothers of its members in the Cummings House and a dinner in honor of the mothers is planned for six o'clock at the same place. The committee in charge of today's activities in this organization is composed of Hazel McClelland, Pearl Booles, Margaret Crooks and Margaret E. Young.

All of the members of the Pi Rho Phi sorority were present at a tea tendered to the organization yesterday afternoon at the Overlook by Dr. Elizabeth McLaughry. Members of the Pan-Hellenic council and members of the faculty of the college were special guests. Mrs. Arthur Curtis of Cleveland, who is a national officer of the national Pi Beta Phi sorority, was an honor guest at the entertainment. The decorations were in red and black, the colors of the local sorority.

The local seniors of the chapter of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority were also entertained yesterday afternoon by Mrs. E. B. Russell at a luncheon given in the home of the hostess. Special guests were Mrs. C. B. Robertson and Miss Martha Wallace. The seniors of the organization are: Miss Lucille McConaghy, Miss Elizabeth Weingartner, Miss Dorothy Nevin and Miss Florida Lindsay.

Another group of this year's graduates who will be similarly honored are the Phi Delta Chi seniors, who are to be tendered a dinner at The Gables in New Castle tonight. The alumni association of the local sorority are acting as hostesses at this social. Those seniors of the organization who will attend are: Evelyn Winger, Dorothy Hildrebrand, Muriel Irons, Mildred Lawson, Lois Reeher and Anna Munro.

At noon today the senior members of the local Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority were also entertained by the under classmen of their sorority. These coed graduates were tendered a "ham fry" in McLaughry's woods.

Liver Eating Not 'Just a Fad'

Thousands Now Taking HEMO-LIVER

Millions of people are eating liver daily and there is a good reason for it. It is not because they enjoy eating liver. They know, as everybody ought to know, that liver contains the vital elements that create rich red blood that every man and woman must have in order to be strong and robust.

The vitalizing elements of liver will be used for years to come because of the marvelous benefits given to thin-blooded, weak, run-down men and women.

But who wants to eat liver as a continuous diet? Thanks to Science, the health-restoring elements in liver are now extracted and put up in a pleasant-to-take elixir called HEMO-LIVER.

A big 12-ounce bottle will last 8 days and a tablespoonful is a dose. One would have to eat liver a great many times to get as much benefit as Hemo-Liver will give you.

So gratifying have been the results of thousands to run-down, anemic, thin-blooded men and women that any progressive druggist will now sell you a bottle of Hemo-Liver with the distinct understanding that if your health is not greatly improved your money will be refunded.

As a Spring tonic it is a generation ahead of old-time remedies.

You can get Hemo-Liver at Love & Megown.

Hemo-Liver Products Co., New York City.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., June 5.—Gov. John S. Fisher Monday received from Juniata College, through its president former Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh, an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. George Wirt, chief state forest fire warden, at the same time was given an honorary master of science degree.

In presenting the degree to Governor Fisher, the former Governor stressed the long public service of the recipient as a state senator head of the department of banking, and finally as chief executive of the commonwealth.

Wirt, a graduate of Juniata, has been one of the pioneers in forest conservation work in Pennsylvania.

W. D. B. Ainney, chairman of the public service commission, also a graduate of the college, made the principal commencement address.

Dairy Field Day At Volant On Thursday

Sixty-five heads of Guernsey, Jersey and Holstein cattle will be displayed at the first annual Dairy Field day to be held at Volant Thursday, June 7, according to County Agent H. R. McCulloch, following a meeting of the general committee, headed by Milo Moose of Volant, Monday evening.

All plans for the show have been completed, and from indications, it will be one of the most successful shows ever to be staged in this part of the state. Judging of the cattle will be done by E. B. Fitts, dairy specialist from the Pennsylvania State College.

In the afternoon, talks will be made by Mr. Fitts and Dr. C. G. Jordan, state secretary of agriculture. The Croton avenue school band has been engaged to furnish music during the day.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

BY MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

Chops are the standby of the woman who wants to get a quick meal. We will serve pineapple with them, using the fresh as it is so good just now. Potato chips or creamed potatoes are easily prepared, only in case the creamed are used you must cook them the day before so as to cream them quickly. Toasted crackers and jelly or fresh berries are a simple but satisfying dessert.

Lamb Chops Sauted Pineapple
Creamed Potatoes or Potato Chips
Watercress and Cottage Cheese Salad
Toasted Crackers Jam or Berries
Coffee

Today's Recipes

Sauted Pineapple—If the fresh is used as it should be, sliced, cut in sections before it is dropped in flour for frying. It must be fried slowly to cook it through. It is not necessary to have it completely cooked, however. It has a more piquant flavor than the sweetened canned fruit.

Watercress and Cottage Cheese Salad—Chop a few young onions or chives with the cream cheese and serve on a bed of watercress.

SUGGESTIONS
Protect Shades

To protect the shades of your floor or bridge lamps on cleaning days or while the house is left closed up, try this: Take a strip of any material you wish, measure the depth of shade and one and one-half the circumference, gather this and stitch onto tape about three inches long, hem ends and bottom, put three snaps on the ends and snap around top of shade.

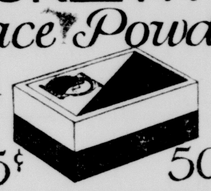

No substitute for this powder

You are delighted, of course, to find your own favorite, Black and White Face Powder, on the dressing tables of people you visit! You know so well there is no substitute for it!

This pure, dainty powder is as distinctive in its life-like tints and flower-fragrance as in its smooth, even texture which blends so naturally, yet so flatteringly, with the skin.

RICH GIRL BARS TEAS FOR WORK

MISS VERA BLOOM.

By BONITA WITT.
Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.

WASHINGTON, D. C. June 5.—Maybe it's because she doesn't have to work—anyhow Miss Vera Bloom capital society girl and daughter of Sol Bloom, multi-millionaire representative from New York gets more real enjoyment out of filling what in newspaper parlance is known as a "tough assignment' than she does in attending an exclusive diplomatic function.

Because her father is a member of the foreign relations committee Miss Bloom and her mother have to spend a great deal of their time at embassy teas, legation dinners and other state functions but ever so often Miss Vera manages to slip away to do an interview or two. Summer usually sees her in Europe, hobnobbing with princes and dictators and storing up data for future newspaper stories.

It was in 1918 before her father came to Washington that Miss Bloom got her first taste of "big time" stories. She had been writing a column for a New York paper but never had done much personal interviewing here or abroad. One day he announced she was sailing for Italy to interview D'Annunzio, the poet-soldier for a New York editor who had promised to buy her story if she succeeded in the almost impossible task of reaching the hero of Fiume.

An Editor With Magic.

Arriving in Italy she learned Fiume was in a state of siege and no one could go through the lines without proper credentials. As the train was departing from the seashore for Rome a soldier to whom she had explained her mission called after her "Try Il Popolo D'Italia!" In Rome she learned "Il Popolo" was a newspaper and its editor a black haired young men Benito Mussolini. From him in a tiny smoke-filled office she obtained the necessary credeitials and made her way to Fiume little guessing that the friendly editor was some day to become one of the most powerful men in all Europe—the dictator of Italy.

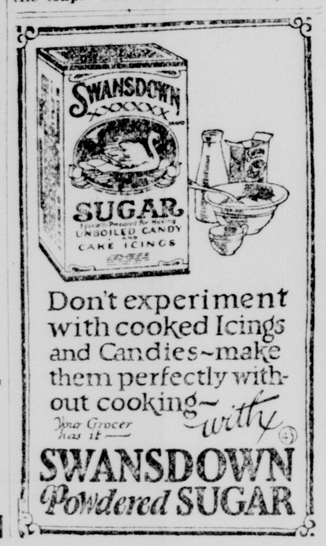

Once in Fiume she was conducted to D'Annunzio's headquarters and obtained her story. Since then she has interviewed virtually every internationally known statesman on the continent and England.

In Miss Bloom's Washington home there are many reminders of her journalistic vacations abroad—autographed photographs of Mussolini and D'Annunzio, letters from members of the nobility and exquisitely bound, hand illustrated copy of her interview with Empress Eugenie. Miss Bloom was the last newspaper person to see the aged empress before she left Paris. To the last the empress retained an atmosphere of the old French court about her. Visitors were required to make a court courtesy upon being presented to her and had to back from the room. Learning this a few minutes before she was to meet the empress Miss Bloom had to practice lest she offend Eugenie by an inexperienced obeisance.

Some day, she confides "I'm going to write a book about Washington. It's the most fascinating city in America. The little stories that can't be printed during the lifetime of the persons they concern I some day hope to put down on paper."

THREE HURT WHEN FIRE RAZES HOME

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 5.—Four persons, trapped in their homes by fire, leaped from the third story windows to escape being burned to death and three were injured. Daniel Delbone, 28, and his wife, 27, suffered injuries to their legs. Laura Spalt, 20, was internally injured when she made the leap. The house was destroyed.

Pennsylvania Elections Officials Declare Machines Needed In This State

PROSECUTIONS ARE BEING POINTED OUT

(From News Bureau)
(State Capital)

HARRISBURG, June 5.—Prosecutions now in progress in Philadelphia and Lackawanna counties on charges of election law violations as result of the April primaries, and convictions in Allegheny, Luzerne and Philadelphia on similar charges from last year's elections, furnish the best proof possible for need of ratification of the voting machine amendment to the constitution next November and enactment of stronger election laws by the next legislature, officials of the Pennsylvania Election association declared in a statement issued here today.

"No stronger argument for laws to insure an honest ballot could be presented," the statement said, than in the "amazing stories of falsification of the returns through marking up the totals for favored candidates, erasures, crooked counting and other manipulations which have come out of the trials."

As indications of a trend toward better election conditions, the association's officials cited formal court orders in Pittsburgh barring election board officials convicted of election law violations from serving on election boards for periods ranging from two to five years; and the action of the Allegheny county Republican committee in endorsing the voting machine amendment.

"As the committee is in accord with the Mellon leadership in the state, its action is regarded as of considerable significance," the statement said.

As indications of how widespread the fraud under the present ballot system is in the two large cities, the association cited sentences imposed on more than 200 election board officials in Pittsburgh; and conviction of 48 in Philadelphia with prosecutions pending against ten more there. Among those sentenced in Pittsburgh are 84 members of 24 election boards who on Friday were disfranchised for four years and denied privilege of serving on election boards for five years.

As proof that fraud in elections is not confined to the two big cities, the association cited other cases in Luzerne and Lackawanna counties where some election officials have been convicted while grand juries are investigating other charges.

To combat election frauds the association has organized branches in Philadelphia, Allegheny and Dauphin counties, and is organizing branches in Lackawanna, Luzerne and York counties.

Among the practices which the association has discovered are general where election boards are corrupt, the statement listed: registering and voting fraudulent and "phantom" names; registering and voting children as young as five years old; voting dead persons; registering the same persons, including children, more than once; registering persons from addresses which do not exist; registering and voting persons who had moved out of the precinct; registering and voting persons who previously had resided in the division but at the time were registered in another ward; registering and voting persons who swore they had neither registered nor voted; voting more persons than registered (in one case 450 were voted although only 446 registered); voting the same person two, three and five times; voting a woman on primary election day who died that day, and then voting her twice at the general election several months later; in Philadelphia, registering persons who lived in 14 other wards, 30 other divisions and three other states; voting 53 persons in alphabetical order, which is not possible under honest voting; registering persons not properly qualified; making false returns of the vote, and voting more ballots than issued.

Voting machines, the association stressed, will end manipulation of the votes which are cast and prevent making false returns. They, however, will not end irregularities in registration, and to correct fraud there, the association will back additional election reforms at the next legislature.

If future fighting is done with machinery, war won't be any fun unless somebody makes a machine that will raise one wheel when a second looey approaches.

Just Among Us Girls

Stars And Suns

By S. S. MYERS

"Are all of the stars suns? If so, do they have solar systems, such as ours, revolving around them?" (W. E. J., New Wilmington, Pa.)

All stars outside of our solar system are suns, some far away and others relatively near. There are white suns, yellow suns and red suns, showing different stages of evolutionary progress. Like human being, suns pass through all stages of development from youth to old age. Our sun is well advanced in middle life while Betelgeuse is yet in its youth. Alpha Centauri, the nearest sun to us, is about the age of our sun while Sirius, the next nearest, has not yet reached middle life. Astronomers calculate the age of a sun by the light it radiates.

Our sun, as it advances toward old age, is gradually losing its heat and light, but it must be remembered that the change is infinitely slow as compared with human life. From the earliest records of history down to the present time the change is imperceptible. The earth receives as much heat from the sun now as it did four thousand years ago. This, of course, has nothing to do with the various fluctuations in temperature from year to year which is due to other causes such as sun-spots.

As to whether other suns have planetary systems, no one knows. It may be reasonable to suppose they have; but if we could transport ourselves and our most powerful telescope to Alpha Centauri and turn our instruments this way only our sun would be visible as a small star. We could not see our planetary system at all. So it is impossible for us to know whether or not Alpha Centauri has planets.

In the case of Sirius, which is twice as far from us as Alpha Centauri, we know that it has at least one planet revolving around it, but it is a small sun, such as Jupiter was thousands of years ago. The only reason we can see it is because it still shines with its own light. It may have many moons and there may be other planets revolving around Sirius, but we cannot see them.

As to the variable stars there is some ground for supposing that the variableness is caused by huge dark bodies moving around them which temporarily diminish their light. If this be true, those are planetary systems beside which our solar system sinks into significance.

Thrift Awards At Thaddeus Stevens School On Monday

Hundred And Seventy Pupils Are Given Awards For Thrift Efforts

The Thaddeus Stevens school did unusually well this year in thrift and special exercises were held Monday, at which time 170 pupils were presented awards by Robert M. Strickler, Jr., representing the Lawrence Savings and Trust Company.

Belgian Aviators Claim New Record In Air Endurance

Claim To Have Broken Record Set Last Week By Two Italian Fliers

(International News Service)

BRUSSELS, Belgium, June 5.—Adjutant Louis Crooy and Sergeant Victor Broenen landed at the Tirlemont Airdrome at 6:47 o'clock Monday after having been in continuous flight since Saturday morning at 6:30. They claim a new world's duration record, having broken the mark set last week by the Italians Ferrarin and Deprete who remained in continuous flight for 58 hours and 37 minutes.

Technicality, however, may prevent their claim from being recognized as they had to refuel seven times, attaching a 30 foot hose to a second plane while both were in flight and drawing the petrol through the hose.

The Belgians used an army plane powered with a Puma motor and confined their flying to the district between Brussels and Liege. They were aloft 60 hours and 17 minutes.

Big Revival Plan Being Considered

E. J. Berquist Says "Tabernacle" Type Of Campaign Is Considered

Plans for an old time spiritual revival, similar to the tabernacle services which were conducted by Billy Sunday back in 1910, at which thousands of souls were won for the cause of Christ, are being considered at the present time by a committee of preachers and laymen of the city, declares E. J. Berquist, superintendent of the City Rescue Mission.

It is hoped that the plans of the committee will materialize within the next year, although the work being put forth in that direction at the present is just a mere beginning of the endeavor to accomplish that goal. If the interest being shown by the various churches of the city is an criterion, the proposed services should result in a grand success.

It has been eighteen years since a tabernacle meeting of the above mentioned kind has been held within the bounds of New Castle, the last one being conducted by the noted Mr. Sunday, who preached two sermons at the First M. E. church not so long ago.

Receive Degrees At Carnegie Tech

New Castle Students Are Among Graduates At Pittsburgh, Today

Why People Have Burning Feet

All In Joints, Says Maine Dr.

"What fools we mortals be."

All these years we have been trying to help thousands of footsore people by bathing and powdering the skin when all the time the real trouble is in the bones, ligaments and cartilages—

Or, to be short, in the joints.

There are 26 bones in the foot covered with cartilage and connected with ligaments and they have a tremendous amount of work to do.

The slightest strain on one little ligament from being "on the feet" too much inflames the whole foot, causing soreness and burning, aching and general misery.

Just try a remedy that is compounded for such troubles only—such as Joint-Ease, which every druggist carries, and see how quickly your sore, tired, inflamed and tortured feet will get well and strong and sturdy again.

Give them a good rubbing tonight with Joint-Ease, a penetrating emolient that gets right in to the source of the trouble and banishes all agony over night—while you sleep.

And remember when Joint-Ease gets in all foot agony gets out—quick—A tube for 60 cents—Every drug store in America.

WRITES FROM HAWAII

HONOLULU, Hawaii, May 19, 1928.

The Editor News:
Dear Sir:

I get the New Castle News here, and I sure enjoy it very much. I get lonesome here at times, but when I start reading the home news it cheers me up, so I am sending you a few lines of myself and what one sees when he enters Honolulu that I am sure the New Castle people would like to read. As a writer I am not so good. . .

I am a New Castle boy, born on the South Side, and there they know me as Tony Christopher. I joined the army in Pennsylvania to do guard duty at the crossroads of the Pacific. I have been here five months, one month before the boxing season was over. I made a good showing that put me on the post boxing team. Before the season closed I had one fight with Kid Wright of Honolulu and won in the first round with a k. o. I am going to train hard for the next boxing season so that I can be one of the best of my weight at Fort Shafter.

I came over on the army transport Cambrai five months ago.

This is what you will see when the ships come to Honolulu; a round diamond head, and there is Waikiki beach. A ship is coming to port. The passengers rush to the decks. Oaku is in sight. Diamond Head rises like a sentinel—adamant, silent. But over it there is a stream of zephyrs and below it nod the friendly palms. Waikiki recedes with only the big hotels standing out boldly. Close to the shore one glimpses surf riders. The hills rise in the distance. They are blue and green, with patches of riotous color here and there. They are veiled by diaphanous clouds. As far as the eye can see, stretching into the north and northwest, the ridges, serrated, rugged, cloud-capped, race away. The ship comes closer. A launch is chugging below. Friends have come out to offer aloha. Grey and brown structures loom from the waterfront. Grey piers leap out of the sea. Aloha tower stands stark and gaunt against the blue green background. Sampans are steaming out to sea. Sampans are steaming back towards the harbor. Smoke spirals from somewhere ashore. Faint noise comes out across the blue. Human activity is in the offing. Tantalus rides high above the city. Pacific Heights and Aleua Heights are dotted with decorations of grey and white—homes of Honolulu citizens. A buoy nearby swings forward and backward. The ship steams into the harbor. Still blue waters begin to swirl in the wake of the vessel. A launch eases out from a wharf. Brown skinned boys dive into the water and yell for coins to be tossed to them. The pier is reached. The band is playing. The strains of "Aloha O" come across the water. The passengers are thrilled—always thrilled with this experience. Alongside the docks hundreds of faces smile a greeting. Many call out names. The response from the ship is generous. The band is playing "Song of the Island". The gangplank spans the void and connects with the ship's deck. Chains rattle and clank; sharp orders are issued; and then comes the signal that all is well.

The visitors stream ashore. Friends meet them and decorate them with leis. The fragrance of wonderful flowers is all about. It is a gala day for the new arrival. No other experience is like it.

The next time I shall write of Honolulu.

CHRISTOPHER.
A New Castle Boy.

PROMINENT MAN ENDORSES THIS NEW MEDICINE

Says Ten Herbs Alone Ended Rheumatism; Stomach And Liver Benefited.

Ten Herbs is proving a sensation not only in this city, but throughout this entire section, as is shown by increasing demand and the reports being received daily from men and women by the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30

MR. R. E. JOHNSTON

East Washington Street, New Castle, where he is daily demonstrating this new natural medicine to crowds of people. Every day men and women are telling of the surprising relief they have been given from disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, by using this successful preparation. Some state that Ten Herbs delivered them from long suffering, after many other medicines failed to give them the least help.

Among the prominent persons who have recently endorsed Ten Herbs is Mr. R. E. Johnston, 615 North Seventh St., Apollo, Pa. Mr. Johnston is well-known throughout Kiski Valley, the chief clerk of Conemaugh-Kiski Coal Co. He recently made the following statement, according to the Ten Herbs Man:

"Ten Herbs certainly drove all the rheumatism out of my system. I was operated on about eight years ago, and since that time my general condition was very bad. For the past five years, I was troubled with rheumatism, and was never able to get anything that would relieve me.

"Ten Herbs not only relieved my rheumatism, but also helped my stomach and put my kidneys in fine condition. I gladly endorse Ten Herbs to the public."

The wonderful natural ingredients of Ten Herbs benefit and invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and give the entire system a thorough cleansing.

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

Eastern Roads May Now Reduce Freight Rates

Discuss Method For Combatting Reduction Offered Illinois Industries

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH June 5.—Steel company traffic representatives planned today to discuss methods for combatting the advantages given shippers of the Chicago district through the Illinois Central railroad's reduction of freight rates on steel and canned goods to New Orleans through the Panama Canal to the Pacific coast.

A meeting of railroad traffic chiefs will be held later at which the local railroad's side of the problem will be discussed, according to Donald O. More, traffic secretary of the Chamber of Commerce who arranged today's conference.

Hope is being entertained that some successful method will be evolved to protect the interests of the Pittsburgh district.

R. N. Collyer chairman of the traffic executive association stated yesterday he had learned that a conference of eastern railroad heads including the Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, New York Central and Erie is being arranged in New York for a discussion of the Illinois Central's new rate.

It is generally indicated that the only relief Pittsburgh may expect is a similar reduction by the eastern carriers.

Governor Asks Flag Day Observance

Proclamation By Governor Fisher Urges Special Observance Of Flag Day

HARRISBURG, June 5.—Governor John S. Fisher today issued a proclamation asking special observance of June 14, the annual Flag Day. The date marks the 151st anniversary of the adoption by the Continental Congress of the Stars and Stripes.

The governor's proclamation stressed the part that Pennsylvania has played in the national struggles and asserted that "every public officer, every teacher in our schools and every leader of public opinion" should take cognizance of the significance of the flag.

The proclamation follows:

Flag Day, June 14, will mark the 151st anniversary of the adoption by the Continental Congress, then sitting in Philadelphia, of the Stars and Stripes as the emblem of our Nation.

This day should be an appropriate time to recall all that our flag means, and what it represents to our citizens and to the nations of the world.

Especially appropriate should this day be to the citizens of our commonwealth. They should be inspired with new enthusiasm for unselfish service, and rededicated themselves to the noble principles for which the national ensign stands.

Every public officer, every teacher in our schools, and every leader of public opinion should impress anew upon our citizens the significance of the Flag of the United States.

To Pennsylvanians who recall Valley Forge, Brandywine, Germantown, the Battle of Lake Erie, Gettysburg, Chateau Thierry, the Argonne Forest, and the sacrifices of our heroic women in all our wars, the Stars and Stripes bear an exceptional message.

Now, therefore, I, John S. Fisher, governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do call upon our citizens to fittingly observe Thursday, June 14, by displaying the Stars and Stripes in public and private buildings and in patriotic exercises in our schools and community centers.

The Presidential Election Of 1880

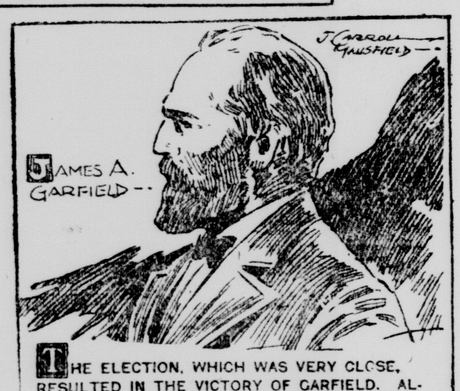

IN 1880, WHEN THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION MET TO NOMINATE A CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT, THE PARTY SPLIT INTO TWO FACTIONS. ONE FACTION, KNOWN AS THE "STALWARTS", WISHED TO ELECT GENERAL GRANT FOR A THIRD TERM; THE OTHER FAVORED THE NOMINATION OF JAMES G. BLAINE, OF MAINE.

A MAJORITY OF THE DELEGATES COULD NOT AGREE UPON EITHER OF THESE MEN AND AFTER THE THIRTY-FIFTH BALLOT THE CONVENTION NOMINATED AS A "DARK HORSE" JAMES A. GARFIELD, OF OHIO. THE REPUBLICAN PLATFORM URGED A PROTECTIVE TARIFF AND THE EXCLUSION OF CHEAP CHINESE LABOR.

THE DEMOCRATS ADOPTED A PLATFORM DEMANDING A TARIFF FOR REVENUE ONLY AND THE RESTRICTION OF CHINESE IMMIGRATION. FOR THEIR CANDIDATE THEY NAMED GEN. WINFIELD SCOTT HANCOCK, A UNION GENERAL WHO, AS COMMANDER OF A MILITARY DEPARTMENT IN THE SOUTH DURING THE TRYING "RECONSTRUCTION" DAYS, HAD WON THE GOOD WILL OF THE SOUTHERNERS BY HIS FAIRNESS AND COURTESY.

THE ELECTION, WHICH WAS VERY CLOSE, RESULTED IN THE VICTORY OF GARFIELD. ALTHOUGH IN THE COUNTRY AS A WHOLE THE REPUBLICANS POLLED ONLY TEN THOUSAND MORE VOTES THAN THE DEMOCRATS, THE ELECTORAL VOTE WAS 214 FOR GARFIELD TO 155 FOR HANCOCK.

NEW YORK, June 5.—George Sisler, once the kingpin of American league players, has made good as first baseman of the Boston Braves which a celerity unlooked for even by his fondest admirers—and probably no such occurrence has tickled fandom's fancy as much since Walter Johnson got into his first world's series.

Apparently no longer bothered by sinus trouble, peerless George has been batting at the healthy rate of .419 in the National league, getting at least one hit in every game. He couldn't hit .100 with Washington. His playing has "made" the Braves, aroused new interest in the fortunes of the team, vindicated the managerial astuteness of Rogers Hornsby, and inspired both of the former St. Louis rivals to greater efforts. Nearly every time the Sizzler gets on base, the Rajah drives him home.

Hornsby Hits Homer

Yesterday Hornsby's eighth homer of the season, with Sisler on base, staked the Braves to a 5 to 3 win over the Reds in the ninth. Hornsby has been on a home run spree, having collected five circuit clouts in the past week.

Dressen and Ep Rixey also hit homers for the Reds. Rixey's was his first of the season and he is now one ahead of his last season's record, if memory does not fail us.

In the only other game which Jupe Pluvius permitted to be played, the Athletics trounced the White Sox, 6 to 3. Grandpa Ty Cobb socked a triple and a single, driving in three runs, and boosted his batting average above .300.

Jerry Tenth In Marathon Race

Less Than 20 Of 72 Entries Finish Course; Agee Selected For Olympics

BALTIMORE, Md., June 5.—Frank Jerry of New Castle, Pa., finished tenth in the marathon held here Saturday. He was the only Western Pennsylvania among the 122 entries.

The race was the final tryout for the American team to paticipate in the Olympic games in Holland. It was won by William Agee, Baltimore in one hour and 57 seconds. Age was selected for the team.

Three other marathons had been held, Agee winning one in Washington several days ago.

Although 122 men were only entered only 73 started and less than 30 finished.

There were two causalties one runner getting a cinder in his eye and the other Victor Glance, Detroit, being blinded by the sun and taken to a hospital after he had collapsed.

SORDS POINTS—By Jack Sords

What Next Is Going To Happen To Rogers Hornsby?

What next is going to happen to Rogers Hornsby?

The most unique man in the baseball business. Hornsby's career has been the strangest succession of contrasts and variety that has ever attended the footsteps of a great baseball star.

The fire-brand Hornsby, the dashing and glorious Rajah who led an onrushing St. Louis gang through a brilliant season and then, to the amazement of a baseball world, roughshod over a beaten and crushed Yankee machine, is in Boston, a quiet young man, quietly building up a pennant contender.

Boston! And Hornsby! How could the two mix? That question bothered baseball men until the 1928 season was under way. It doesn't bother them any more. The Rajah and Boston are getting along splendidly.

The last two years have meant more for Rogers Hornsby than a decade means for many other players. Two years ago today he was whipping St. Louis Cardinals into the first attack of that frenzy and fury that was the season of 1926.

Up, up, up went the Cards, Rogers leading them with his brilliant play. It was his first year as manager and he wanted to make good. He did, in overflowing measure. The Cards won the pennant and forever shattered the tradition that a St. Louis club can't win. And then, in the world series they destroyed, for the time being, one of the greatest baseball powers that ever existed—the Yanks.

His feat was sensational. To win a pennant in his first year as manager for a team that had never before known victory!

As a player Hornsby was even greater than as a manager. In 1922 he made 42 home runs. He also knocked out 200 extra base hits. For years he had been the league's leading batsman.

With the cheers of victory still ringing in his ears Hornsby was kicked out as manager of the St. Louis club. He was sent to New York. Trouble arose because as a stockholder in the St. Louis club it was impossible for him to play for another club and because a bookmaker filed suit against him, alleging Hornsby owed him a fortune in unpaid gambling debts.

This was all taken care of and Hornsby settled down last year to be a Giant star. Once during the season he took over the management of the club when John McGraw was ill and the Giants had the best trip of the season under him. He looked good and New York was apparently crazy about him.

Like a bombshell came mid-winter news that he had been dropped in a trade to the Boston Braves for two rookies. There were many stories of friction between Hornsby and the club ownership.

The Rajah opened the season as a player with the Braves, but when the news was published that Jack Slattery was no longer manager of the Braves and Hornsby had succeeded him no one was surprised.

It will be interesting to watch the progress of the Braves under the Rajah. He leads with an iron hand and believes that the line should be toed all the time. That is a different type of leader than the team has been used to in a long time.

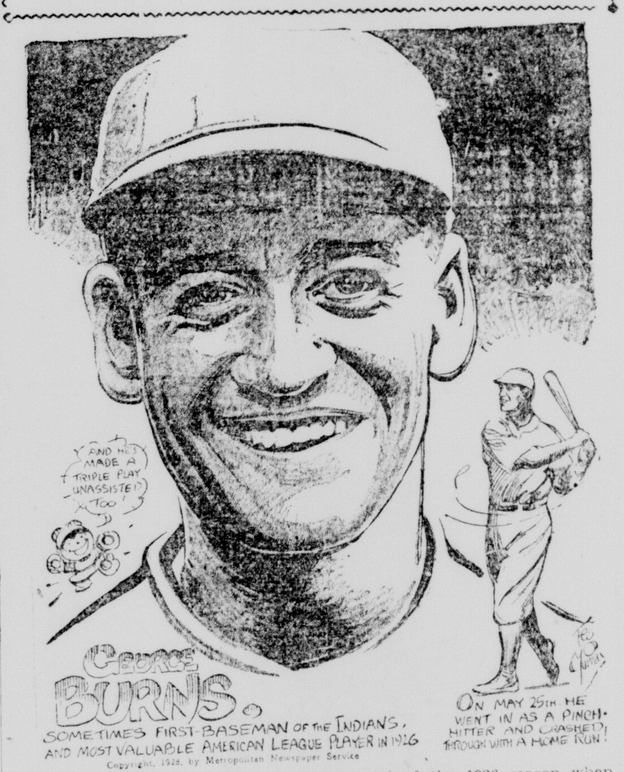

Rogers plays the game hard. He fights tooth and nail for every game. He expects and usually gets his players to do the same.

But the big question of baseball still remains:

What next is going to happen to Rogers Hornsby?

The Fire Still Burns

By Feg Murray

George Henry Burns has a habit of coming into his own every now and then. He played for Detroit from 1913 to 1917, inclusive, never doing anything extraordinary. Then he went to Philadelphia for two seasons and hit .352 in 1918, more than sixty points higher than he had ever batted before. Next our hero played for Cleveland, at first base and in the outfield, and took part in the world series against Brooklyn. Although he hits .361 in 1921, he was traded with Elmer Smith to the Red Sox for Stuffy McInnis.

Picture George Burns, now with Boston, in a game against his former teammates on Sept. 14, 1923. George astonished the whole world that follows baseball by turning in that rarest of all diamond feats, a triple play unassisted. Cleveland just had to have him again after that, and he's been with them ever since, coming into his own more than ever before at the end of the 1926 season when a committee of baseball writers voted him the most valuable player in the American league.

That season Burns played for weeks with a broken thumb and a cracked rib. Every move was agony, but how he did move! He ended that season with the fine average of .358, compiled in 151 games. Last year he batted .319, and this season, again handicapped by injuries, he batted only .208 in his first seventeen games. But the season is yet young, and George showed that he still has the old wallop by hitting a home run on May 25 when sent in against the Browns as a pinch-hitter.

Co-ed at track meet—"Where do they get all those officials who work at the high jump and the pole-vault?"

Her Escort—"Oh, they're all ex-bartenders."

Tennis Squabble Is Still Raging

Would Keep Bill Tilden Out Of Doubles Play In Davis Cup Matches

CONTROVERSY IS HEATED AFFAIR

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 5.—If some of the backstairs rumors being aired today can be accepted as credible, the next contest in the Davis Cup series will not feature the Americans' appearance in the inter-zone finals with the European winner, after all. It will be the usual match between William T. Tilden and the United States Lawn Tennis Association or at least that segment of the organization that is irremediably anti-Tilden. They say this element, headed by Julian S. Myrick, former Davis Cup chairman, is committed to a program that would keep Tilden out of the doubles in both the inter-zone finals and the challenge round with France, provided the Americans survive that long.

Then anti-Tilden forces, they say, desire the following line up to hold good through the European campaign: singles, Tilden and John Hennessey, Indianapolis; doubles, Hennessey and George M. Lott, Chicago; reserves, Francis T. Hunter, New York, who has been acclimating abroad, and "Junior" Coen, Kansas City, who is going along just for the ride.

It was the first intimation of this program that prompted Tilden to wire Joseph W. Wear, the present cup chairman, last week asking whether, as alleged, Hunter was to be dropped from consideration without his, Tilden's advice and consent as team captain. Wear's reply was distinctly re-assuring to those who believe in Tilden and his leadership. The chairman said, in effect, that Tilden's dominance was not in contest, so far as he was concerned.

Federal Prisoners Take To Atlanta

Twenty-Six Federal Prisoners Removed From Pittsburgh To Atlanta, Georgia

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 5.—Twenty-six prisoners, sentenced to terms in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., accompanied by U. S. marshals and several armed guards, left Pittsburgh early today in a special train for the southern penal institution.

Among the prisoners were three members of an alleged narcotic ring which operated in southwestern Pennsylvania. They were Joseph Pandaglio, sentenced to three years; Tobie Murphy and Anthony Klavon, sentenced to two years each. They lived in Scottdale.

Three police officials of Monessen, Pa., convicted of a liquor conspiracy, were also among those who left today. They are former Chief of Police William A. Horne, Patrolman Walter Wyatt and Constable Joseph Mochnally, each sentenced to serve a year and a day.

Samuel Horgan, Homestead councilman, convicted of participating in a liquor conspiracy, will start a year-and-a-day sentence today after a long futile battle for acquittal. Several other Homestead officials, convicted with Horgan, accepted sentence, served eight months and last week were paroled.

Fishing Chats with The Old Angler

Number 1

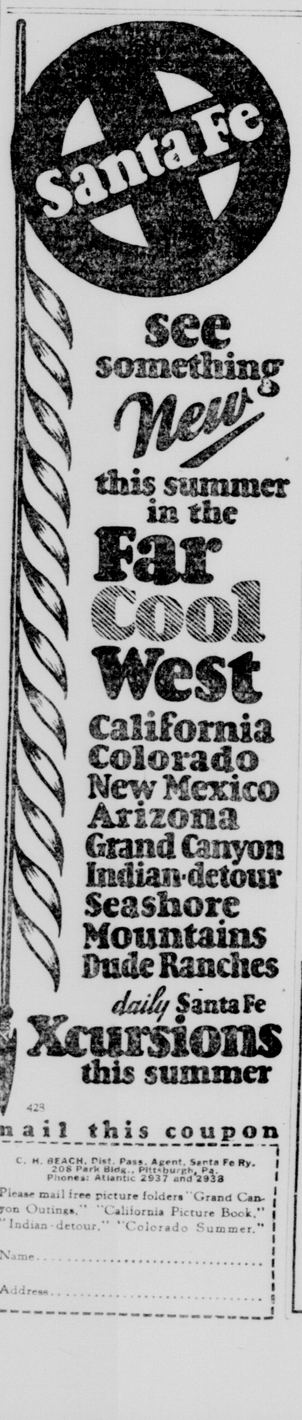

More than a quarter of a million licensed anglers in some of the older and most populated states indicates the wide interest displayed by the average citizen in this red-blooded, health-building sport in the open. The early season angling is for brook, rainbow and brown trout, the sportiest of all fresh water denizens. Real trouting under ideal weather conditions in the states above the Mason and Dixon line and those above the Ohio river and to the west, does not come until late spring, when the high icy waters run down and the weather comes fully out of cold storage.

Even if the legal trout season in your state did open late in the spring, you have not missed much by delaying your ichthyic vacation until ideal weather and conditions arrive and good sized trout get into biting mood.

Early season trouting brings out hordes of anglers, but they get little save baby trout for their efforts, and trouting in uncertain April weather, wading icy waters in cold rains and occasional snow flurries seems more like a standing invitation to take on a bad cold or a dose of pneumonia than real sport.

Pipgras came to the Yankees in 1923, but was found a little green. They let him out on option to Atlanta and Nashville in 1925, and St. Paul in 1926. He came back last year to win 10 games while losing but three for Huggins.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

President Doak Roberts of the Texas League revealed some interesting figures recently showing how the cost of ball players had soared in recent years. Roberts jotted down the sale price of 26 players he had tossed to the major leagues in a 20-year period before the high finance era set in.

Here are some of the recognized stars he peddled and the prices the majors paid for them. And as you read compare the sale price to those on the tickets that went with Babe Ruth's disposal to the Yanks, the Hornsby deal and others.

Nig Clarke, famous old-time catcher, went to Cleveland for $500.

Pitcher Dode Criss brought Roberts $750 from the St. Louis Browns.

The Cardinals paid him $500 for Catcher Charley Moran. George Whiteman, momentarily a world series star with the Red Sox, brought $750.

Tris Speaker went to the Red Sox for $800. Jim Dunn, at the time owner of the Indians, paid the Sox $55,000 for Speaker in 1916.

Bill Killefer brought him $1,250.

Pitcher George Foster, a member of the famous old Red Sox machine, netted Roberts $2,500. These sales, of course, came later.

Slim Harriss, still seeking his place in the hall of fame, cost the Athletics $2,500.

Connie Mack paid the same for Glenn Myatt, now with Cleveland. For the total 26 players Roberts received less than a single untried star of fair magnitude brings these days.

State Health Head Warns Motor Tourists Against Polluted Drinking Water

"The mushroom growth of camps and free camp sites has presented a definite sanitary problem to health officials throughout the country. Many states have efficiently solved it, including Pennsylvania," said Dr. Theodore B. Appel, secretary of health, today.

"Nevertheless, a warning must be given to the thousands who, in response to the 'call of the wild' and the 'back to nature' urge, will soon take to the road, gypsy fashion."

It is not enough to arrive somewhere at the end of the day, erect tents for the night's stay and assume that the health department has fully protected you. On the main highways, and even on the more traveled side roads, such is likely to be the case. In camps of this character the water supply will carry the familiar yellow sign—Safe Drinking Water, the sanitary facilities will be adequate and the cleanliness of the surroundings evident.

However, there is a surprising number of camp sites that are to be found in more remote sections, many of which, even if the road has been covered by the sanitary engineer, have come into existence after a survey has been made and consequently has been missed. It is at spots like these that care and circumspection must be exercised.

The lure of such a camp is strong. The seclusion of a wooded tract far from the madding crowd sometimes overcomes all consideration of personal health. The motorist is so taken with the scenery and aloofness that he fails to give any thought to the water supply—the source of much of that disease which, by reason of its seasonal incidence, is now known as vacation typhoid.

Deep in the mountains spring water is likely to be entirely safe, but when using such a source, investigate the immediate neighborhood for possibilities of infection. It may knock a bit of romance and poetry out of the situation, but what is the lack of a little of that compared with the typhoid bacillus which may be awaiting a chance to infect you?

The following rules are for the guidance of those more adventurous spirits who spurn established camps or the approved camp site:

1. Always investigate the source of your water supply. If a spring, see to it that contaminating factors are absent; if a stream, then invariably boil the drinking water. A drop of tincture of iodine may be added to every pint of water in lieu of boiling. Others may have polluted it—and contrary to a popular notion, water does not purify itself in every eight miles.

2. Do not throw any garbage or refuse into a stream, open well or spring—bury or burn it.

3. Bury body eliminations.

4. Avoid swampy or mosquito infested areas.

5. Leave the camp site in a neat and sanitary condition. There are others who will likely follow you. Make sure that all fires are out.

Back to nature is a splendid idea. Observe the rules and live to enjoy such an outing again next year.

Has Old Roman Minted In 342

(International News Service)

ALLENTOWN, Pa., June 5.—A gold coin of the ancient Roman empire is the heirloom owned by Mike Franges of this city. The coin has been handed down from generation to generation, having been found on the site of the ancient city of Troy.

Franges recently took the coin to Dr. George T. Ettinger, dean of Muhlenberg college, who deciphered the inscription. Dr. Ettinger found that the coin was a solidus, minted during the reign of Constantine in the year 342 A. D.

Father Criticises Girl's Ambition To Fly Atlantic Ocean

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 5.—The attempt of Amelia Earhart to fly across the Atlantic Monday was criticized by the father of the 24 year old aviatrix as "a fool-hardy sporting adventure that will not advance aviation in the slightest degree."

"But I'm trying to take a philosophical view of the whole thing," said the father, Edwin S. Earhart, Los Angeles attorney and former Kansas City jurist.

"If my daughter doesn't get killed in some crazy airplane flight she might die of pneumonia, and that would be a more lingering end."

"Of course, she's a good flier," the father added with a show of pride. "She's never had any crashes although she made two forced landings. Once, when she was flying over Los Angeles, an oil guage broke and temporarily blinded her, but she got out of that all right."

Finds Disease Among Chickens

Poultry extension specialists of the Pennsylvania State College report that coccidiosis is quite prevalent in the flocks of the state, according to County Arent H. R. McCulloch.

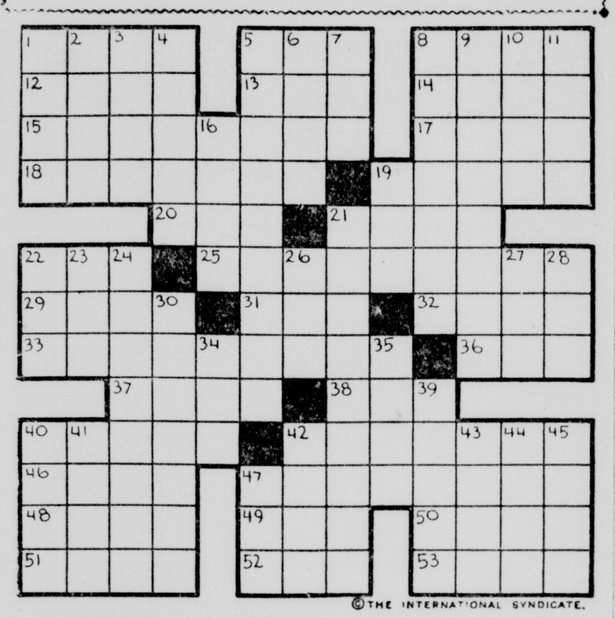

Visiting ten flocks in Center county, H. D. Munroe found disease in seven of the flocks. C. O. Dossin has found coccididosis in three of our four flocks visited. They feel that these conditions are representative of those in the entire state.

The disease is detected in chickens between three and twelve weeks old. The first symptoms are loss of color from the beaks and shanks of the chicks. Affected chicks usually act sleepy.

Recommended treatment includes taking away all scratch and mash feed and replacing with the following mixture: 40 pounds of powered milk, 30 pounds of yellow corn meal, 20 pounds of reground rolled oats, and ten pounds of bran. Fresh water is to be kept before the birds at all times. During the treatment the brooder houses are cleaned at least once a day for the four days and then every other day until the chicks are cured. The birds should recover under such treatment in about ten days, when they can be put back on their regular rations.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

FROZEN IN THE ICE

"But Eagle was so greedy that he couldn't wait to get to his home on the cliff before he tasted his prize. So without waiting to share the feast he had stolen from his cousin Osprey with his hungry family, he carried it off to great piece of ice that was floating near the shore, tore the duck to pieces and began to eat it.

"By and by when the greedy Eagle had had enough he began to think about taking the rest up to the children. He flapped his great wings and tried to fly. But he couldn't move. Eagle's feet had frozen tight to the ice and pull as he would he couldn't loosen them.

"All the Ospreys gathered around and laughed at him. And he couldn't do a thing. At last even his wings grews so stiff he couldn't move them.

"Greedy Eagle had turned into a piece of ice and for all I know—if the sun hasn't melted him—he is still there, fast to that cake of ice.

"And maybe all the mother eagles tell their babies—as they point him out—what will happen if ever they steal their food instead of going a-fishing or a-hunting for themselves."

Mother Gray Rabbit was a kind hearted creature. She felt sorry for what happened to the Eagle, thief that he was.

"Poor old thing! I know exactly how he felt when he found he couldn't move," said she. "Once I got my foot caught in a trap. Luckily though it was only the skin and I tore myself free. But I shall never forget how frightened I was! What a pity it was so cold! And how cruel of the Ospreys to laugh at his misfortune."

"Pooh! I don't feel a bit of pity for him," declared Sonny-Bunny, suddenly. "He deserved all he got. I'll bet a cabbage-head he could have escaped if he hadn't been so greedy!"

"That is what comes of having more stomach than sense," remarked Bobolink, sagely. "Take care, young Rabbit, and never let what you are eating make you forget what you are. You were nibbling away at that lettuce at a great rate when I saw you a short while ago, you know."

"HE FLAPPED HIS WINGS AND TRIED TO FLY, BUT COULDN'T LIFT HIS FEET."

Sonny-Bunny tossed his saucy head and behind his mother's back stuck out his little red tongue at Bobolink, but he made no answer to the other's remarks. Mrs. Gray Rabbit looked worried and Peter, wishing to change the subject, said quickly:

"You do tell the most interesting stories, Bobolink. Can't you or your wife think of something else?"

Next—"Tom Fool."

Make Dry Raids Near Summer Home Of President Coolidge

(International News Service)

ASHLAND, Wis., June 5.—Swooping down on the section of northern Wisconsin, 70 miles east of Brule, where President Coolidge will spend his summer vacation, a squad of 30 federal prohibition agents arrested 15 residents of the town of Hurley in a dry raid.

The prisoners were brought here to face formal charges of sale and possession of liquor.

Y.M.C.A. Directors In Convention

(International News Service)

YORK, Pa., June 5.—The first annual convention of the directors and committeemen of the Young Men's Christian Associations of southern Pennsylvania opened here Monday.

The associations represented at the meeting included the three Harrisburg organizations, that of the Pennsylvania railroad at Enola, the Reading company organization at Rutherford and those of York, Carlisle, Wayneboro, Hanover, Lebanon and Lancaster.

Grangers Of Center County Observing Home Coming Week

(International News Service)

BELLEFONTE, Pa., June 5.—The first home-coming week of Centre county grangers opened here Monday with several hundred persons attending the meetings, which will close with a field meet at Grange park on June 9.

Walter C. Gumbel, general chairman of committees, announced that among the speakers were State Senator David H. Agans of New Jersey and E. B. Dorsett, master of the state grange. State and national officials of the organization are planning to organize other meetings throughout the state.

Farmers didn't feel so down-trodden in the old days. They couldn't ride so far to hear so many speeches.

Licenses Of 41 Drivers Revoked

Ellwood City Man Among Those To Lose License For Intoxication

(International News Service)

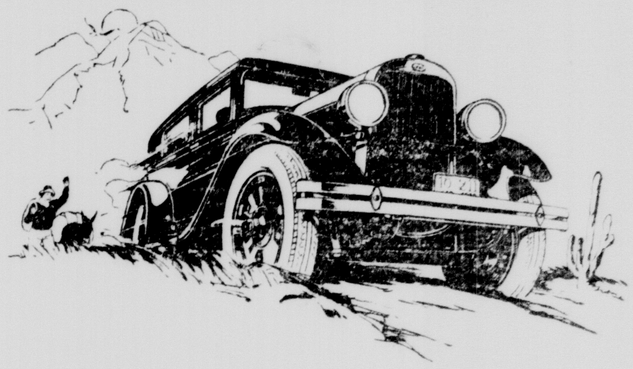

HARRISBURG, June 5.—Twenty-four of the 41 revocations of automobile drivers' licenses announced today by the department of highways were caused by intoxication. The department also announced the names of 11 drivers who have been added to the prohibitory list.

Revocations for intoxication included Clinton Brewer, Ellwood City; Charles E. Zohn, Lebanon; Howard Leibley and Harry Herman, both of Lancaster; H. E. Childs, Sharon, and O. G. Garner, Huntingdon.

Cyrus G. Bachman, Lebanon, was included in the revocations for transporting liquor. The licenses of H. P. Fisher, Lancaster, was revoked on the charge that he is an improper person to operate a motor vehicle.

Only those who are qualified should cast the first stone, but that doctrine spoils the jury system.

2 Kotex Improvements
with a million new women users
Regular price was 65c, NOW 45c—at all stores

WHEN the Improved Kotex was perfected it was sold without announcement of the fact that any changes had been made.

The improvements in Kotex are exclusive.

The first is an improved shape—one that means no awkward bulkiness to mar smooth, fashionable lines. The other, a fleecy softness never known before. The two mean almost unbelievable comfort—a total peace-of-mind found with no other pad.

But the women of America were quick to find out the improvements. And within a few months, a million new women had adopted the Improved Kotex. Kotex has always been the largest selling sanitary pad in the world.

This doubled volume brought such efficiencies in manufacture that we found the regular price could be greatly reduced at the same time that we announced the Improved Kotex.

Now get Improved Kotex at new low prices

Today obtain the Improved Kotex. You can buy it anywhere. All drug, department and dry goods stores have it now—at the new low prices.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 5.—The Federal Reserve Board's statement of policy in money market affairs, calling upon the banks to curtail speculative borrowing, brought further selling into the market in the first period today, and Monday's closing reaction was carried into this period. With the exception of a few of the specialties, prices held fairly steady from 1 to 3 points below Monday's close, though General Motors and Radio dipped about 8 points each on heavy selling orders.

The New York Stock Exchange, in its monthly credit report, showed that brokers' loans from all sources had gone $278,000,000 beyond the five-billion-dollar mark, completing an expansion of $1,500,000,000 over the past twelve months. It was generally felt that the Reserve Board meant exactly what it said in its statement issued after the close of Monday's session, and would be able to enforce its "suggestion" to member banks to contract loans or sell securities.

The renewal rate on call loans was 6½ per cent. A fractional decline from Monday's close, but a seven-year record for an initial 6½ per cent rate. The banks were not able to report an influx of outside money, despite the attractive terms now being offered for the use of funds in the speculative markets.

Though trading was in large volume in this period, and some of the speculative leaders were turned over quite rapidly, there was nothing approaching a serious break in the market, and in many cases moderate rallies were in evidence near the end of the first hour. The pools were inclined to extend better support to their market favorites, and the "sold out bulls" were reported on the outlook for bargains in stocks which have shown the best power of resistance in recent selling.

Rallies in the industrial and specialty stocks were continued with good effect in the second hour Radio recovered from 194 to 199, and showed a 2-point gain over Monday's close. United States Steel rallied to 143⅛, and recoveries of a point or more above Monday's final prices were scored by Studebaker, Nash, Consolidated Gas and other favorites. Chrysler was reactionary on reports that the merger with Dodge would not be put through until 90 per cent of Dodge stock had been deposited. Coppers held fairly steady, and the rails were mostly out firm.

LIONS DISCUSS CIVIC PROGRESS

Discuss Activities Of Chamber Of Commerce At Noon Meeting

Is New Castle developing as fast as other cities of its size?

This was one of the questions which led the members of the New Castle Lions Club to inquire into the activities of the local Chamber of Commerce, and at the same time vote unanimously to support civic activity at a meeting of the club which was held at noon today in the main dining room of the Elks Club. Discussion was led by John Bevan, Wayne Stitzinger and William Gordon.

Mr. Bevan stated that the seventh ward railroad terminals were anything but an advertisement for the city, since they do not show what New Castle really is.

"For the past 20 years," said Mr. Gordon, "the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce and the old Board of Trade have been practically the same. No outside pressure has been brought to bear on their activities. I know that there are some members of the board who do not want things improved. Those that control the chamber are comfortable. They do not care. It is up to the Lions club to sponsor a movement which will put new civic life and pride in the community." Mr. Gordon also stated that at the present time, the railroads earnings are enormous, and now is the time for a community to get a new station.

A committee to work out a plan for new railway terminals in the city, composed of William Gordon, John Bevan and Wayne Stitzinger was appointed by King Lion Jay Reed. To check up on the activities, Dr. Thomas Shaffer was appointed chairman, to name his own committee. Ed Wilson was appointed chairman of a committee to inquire into the feasibility of a municipal golf links.

As delegate to the national convention, King Lion Jay Reed was appointed, with John R. Ellison as alternate.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., June 5.—Four hundred thirty seniors and postgraduate students of West Virginia University here received degrees today at commencement exercises.

Would Divide Fines With Municipalities As Enforcement Aid

(International News Service)

HANOVER, Pa., June 5.—Division of motor code violation fines with municipalities would result in better enforcement, Benjamin G. Eynon, registrar of motor vehicles, today told the Pennsylvania State Association of Boroughs in session here. Eynon came out emphatically for amendment of the present law which provides that all fines except those for speed and weight go into the state treasury.

Explaining that the purpose of the motor patrol is primarily prentive and punitive, Eynon said, that better cooperation by city and borough authorities would tend to reduce the number of motor code infractions with the resultant accidents.

The possibility of a return of the old time "fining mills" under the suggestion he proposed also was discussed. Eynon said that he believes the weight of public opinion and cooperation of motor organizations will eventually drive out of business, any form of law enforcement actuated only by a fine collecting motive.

The registrar blamed the great majority of motor accidents on the "irresponsive five per cent who are chronically reckless or drive around in a half trance condition." It was this "five per cent" which Eynon asserted causes the death of five persons each day in Pennsylvania and the injury of scores.

Party Difficulties Told To Graduates By New York Writer

Walter Lippmann Of New York World, Commencement Speaker At Carnegie Tech

Says Both Major Parties Find Selves Face To Face With Important Issues

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 5.—It is no accident of politics but a manifestation of history in the making that the Republican party should find itself divided by the conflict of interest between farmers and manufacturers, and that the Democratic party should be passing through an intense struggle due to the rise of man who embodies and represents the needs and ideas of the masses in the great cities, Walter Lippmann of the New York World told the 381 graduating students of the Carnegie Institute of Technology in delivering the commencement address at the 21st exercises today.

"I do not believe," he said, "That this coming election will end the conflict in either party. It is a conflict which will test to the uttermost, not only the tolerance of the American people but their wisdom."

American political tradition and the American system of government, Lippmann said, were established in a country in which life on the land was the characteristic way of living. He pointed out that within the last 50 years there has been a trend toward the concentration of people in cities.

Parties Undermined

"The political effects of this great change," he insisted, "Are already beginning to undermine both of the two great political parties."

Another problem this generation will be called upon to solve in the future, Lippmann observed, arises out of the fact that within the last few decades the center of power in the world has passed from Europe to America. Nobody has a clear notion of what this new power is or what responsibilities go with it, he said.

Lippmann concluded his address with a brief discussion of the conflict between conservatism and liberalism, which, he said, is a third problem facing graduates of the present generation.

Coronor's Jury Probes Disaster At Mather Mine

(International News Service)

WAYNESBURG, Pa., June 5.—A second official investigation of the explosion in a coal mine at Mather, Pa., which killed 195 men, started here today shortly before noon when a jury was empaneled by Greene county Coroner John W. Ross to fix the cause of the blast.

Coroner Ross, who announced he has summoned 28 witnesses, will be assisted by official of the Pickands-Mather Company, owner of the Mather colliery, and by Ira Thomas, deputy state secretary of mines, who conducted the official investigation for the state.

A second coroner's jury was empaneled to make formal identification of the bodies.

Only two of the mine blast's victims have not been recovered.

Gun Battle In Home Is Fatal To Sick Mother

Police Battle Youth In Revolver Duel, Shock Too Great For Mother Sick In Bed

(International News Service)

MONONGAHELA, Pa., June 5.—Mrs. Elizabeth Melville, 79, of Stockdaleton, is dead today after witnessing a gun battle between police and her son Robert, 44. Physicians are of the opinion that the aged mother died from the shock. The son is reported near death.

Mrs. Melville was sick in bed when her son, escaping from the Monongehela jail yesterday where he was being held on a charge of disorderly conduct, took refuge in his mother's home.

Police went to Mrs. Melville's home to rearrest her son. A gut battle ensued in which Melville and Patrolman Charles Byers were both wounded. Police had to use tear gas to force their entrance into the house reports here said.

Announce Latin Honor Students

June Awards Are Made Known At Senior High School Today

The end of the year at the Senior High school brings with it the announcement of latin honors for those latin students finishing regular year's work in June. Similar announcement was made in January for the mid-year classes. Such honors are always based on actual achievement in a series of standardized tests which always include vocabulary, forms, syntax and translation.

Latin honors entitle the student who has won them to membership in Senatus Romanus a senior high school club interested in developing scholarship. Appropriate certificates are issued to the winners and live competition for the gold and silver medals granted to the students of outstanding ability in each class in Vergil is thereby stimulated.

This June the awards are as follows: Third year, Summa Cum Laude, Ellamae Johnston; Magna Cum Laude, Edith Cleveland; Cum Laude, Genevra Hazen, Bernice Jones, Margaretta Hess, David Kay, and James Carpenter.

Second year honors, Summa Cum Laude, Margaret Wallace; Magna Cum Laude, Kathryn Boston; Cum Laude, Elizabeth Leischman, William Shira, Madge Gardner, Charles Nolan, Jack Stevenson, Hazel Mathews, Jane Hawkins, George Zidow, Josephine Allen and Davis Harris.

First year honors, Summa Cum Laude, Felix Zuchowski; Magna Cum Laude, Laura Carson.

Not To Encourage Wire-Tapping By Federal Agents

Seymour Lowman Declares Against Petty Wire-Tapping When Not Needed

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Wire-tapping, upheld by the Supreme court as constitutional in prohibition enforcement work, will be used only to bring criminals to justice and then only with extreme caution, assistant secretary of the treasury Seymour Lowman declared today.

"Snooping" by tapping in on private telephone lines will not be tolerated, Lowman said. He insisted that the dry unit has no intention of making this enforcement method obnoxious by violation of the privacy of homes.

There will be no general and widespread wire-tapping by federal agents who, by listening to private conversations, hope to secure some information of value in enforcement operations, he asserted.

"In the past, through tapping of wires in necessary cases the prohibitious bureau has been able to build up successful prosecutions against conspirators to violate the law," Lowman said.

"We do not use this extreme method except in conspiracy cases involving large numbers of persons or in other important investigations of big bootlegging operations."

Treasury officials insisted that wire tapping is only practiced where there is excellent reason to believe that the dry laws are being violated.

Almost 50 Camps For Tourists Exist In Mercer County, Says Doctor

MERCER, Pa., June 5.—Prefacing the arrival of tourists in Mercer county this summer, the sanitation and water used at each camp is being inspected by Health Officer Frank Jones of the Mercer County Health Bureau.

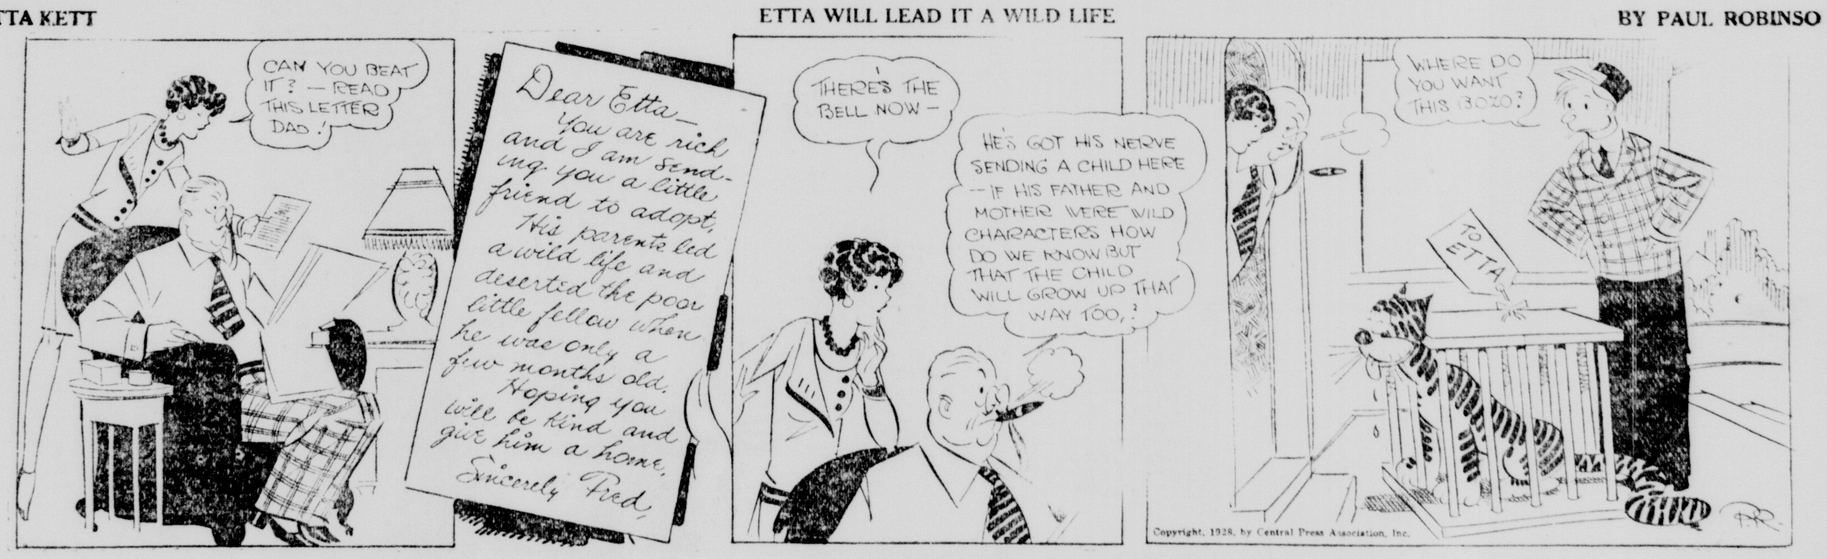

Pennsylvania is one of the few states in the Union that take this precaution to safeguard the health of their summer visitors.

It is reported by Dr. S. J. Dickey, the county medical director, that the camps for tourist use in the county number well toward 50.

Five Thousand To Take Part In Shrine Event

Another enthusitstic meeting of Lawrence Shrine Caravan No. 5 took place at the Scottish Rite Cathedral on Monday evening. All committees reported on their activities and it was found that the arrangements for the great ceremonial to be held on June 14 are already perfect. The committees have been doing wonderful work, working with the officials of Syria.

It was decided that all the Shriners in attendance at the ceremonial will march in one section of the parade. There will be no place for any delegations from other places, but all the Shriners will march together in one company.

The special train from Pittsburgh will arrive in this city over the P. & L. E. R. R. at about two thirty on that day. About a dozen automobiles will be there to transport the officials to the hotels and the remaining several hundred who will come on the train will march direct to the Scottish Rite Cathedral, where they will immediately form in the parade.

The official colors of the Shrine are red, green and yellow. Those decorating will use bunting of these colors. It is requested that everybody decorate that day.

The dinner will be served starting at five o'clock and at seven o'clock the work of the ceremonial will start.

Shriners will be here from all parts of Western Pennsylvania and it is estimated that over five thousand will be in the city.

The last meeting of the local caravan and the committees will be held next Monday evening at the Scottish Rite Cathedral at 7:30, when the plans will be entirely completed for one of the greatest events ever held in New Castle in such a short time.

PIN LOST IN AUTO LEADS TO DIVORCE

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 5.—Loss of a woman's pin in an automobile owned by John H. Dey of Brownsville resulted in the granting of a divorce to Mrs. Mary A. Dey.

Mrs. Dey testified that a strange woman came to the Dey home and inquired whether a pin she had left in the Dey automobile had been found. When Mrs. Dey admonished the unknown woman for coming between husband and wife, the visitor said that Dey told her he was single. Divorce action followed.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

After doing some roaming by land and air in the past few days, did a little water roaming Monday night, though not intentionally. The pleasant June rain which swished down with all the gentleness of a Cape Cod nor'easter had Mill street filled nearly from curb to curb for a distance of five blocks.

Automobiles hit the lake area with a swish and foot passengers on both sides of the street were treated to shower baths. Cars whose distributors were placed low had a nice time. Most of them went through in second gear, fearing every moment would splash the water up on the distributor points and they would be maroned. Water on both sides and not even a coral island in sight.

Up at the high school the "Poor Nut" was the attraction and it was an attraction. A laughable sort of a thing with the lead character one of these goofs who thinks Fritz Kreisler is an automobile manufacturer. But like the story book he comes through, wins the race, the girl, the school honors and everything else but the charter on the city hall property.

And of course it rained all evening. Not only that but it had been raining all day with the steady persistence of a book agent. That misanthropist who wrote the song which reads "its so cozy in the rain' should have had a couple of outside assignments yesterday.

And as for the other lad who wrote "it isn't raining rain to me, its raining violets" I only hope he got the chance to pick himself a man sized Louquet. It was raining rain around here, saturating, collar soaking rain that had everything and everybody all wet.

The people who live out on the far end of the North Hill and have gardens are thinking of organizing a rabbit hunt. Tender shoots of beans, peas, radishes and the rest of the garden truck are being nipped off every night by the scissor like teeth of rabbits who are invading the hill and the cannonading can be expected anynight.

One good burgher claims that he has a crop of eight dollar radishes that is getting a pushing around from the bunnies. He arrived at the eight dollar estimate by reason of the original cost of tools and seeds. The labor he is willing to mark off as gratis but after massaging a patch of ground the size of an army blanket with a three dollar rake, a two dollar hoe and getting mud all over a pair of twelve dollar shoes he does hate to have a forty cent rabbit step in and get his vitamins from those radish tops.

He is thinking of asking council to loan him a couple of traffic lights but second thought convinces him that the rabbits would believe he was marking the garden for them. Why not take up a collection some night. This stops a lot of humans from going places.
